

Ask Teachers to Apply For Sabbatical

New Law Provides for Time Off After Seven Years' Service

To encourage teachers to ask for the sabbatical leave to which they are entitled under the new law, the board of education has waived the requirement that all applicants take a physical examination, both before the leave and when returning to work.

The state law provides that those who have served in the same school system for a period of seven years or more may apply for this leave of one or two semesters with the understanding that the period of absence will be spent in travel or study. They will receive for that period the differential between the salary of the substitute assigned to the position and their own regular salary. It is estimated that there are at least 1000 teachers who are financially able to ask for sabbatical leave.

At a recent meeting of the board, where the subject of sabbatical leave was under discussion, the belief was voiced that if married women in the schools did not avail themselves of leaves of absence at this time and thus assist in relieving unemployment, there was a possibility that a bill would be introduced at the next legislature prohibiting the employment of married women as teachers. There are now approximately 2500 married women in the Los Angeles city schools.

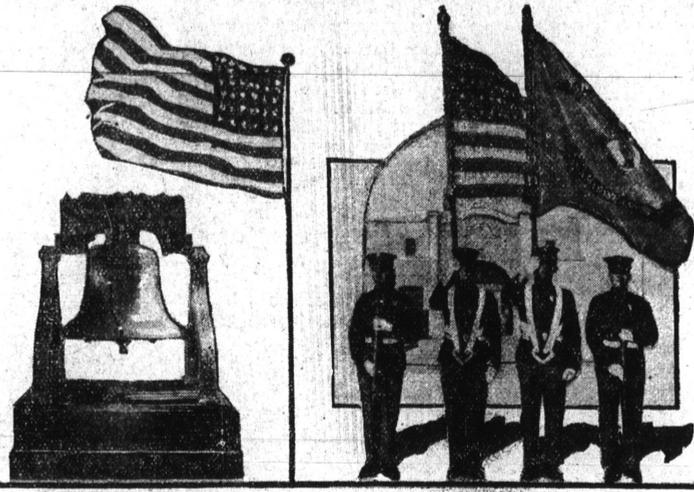

Rates Reduced For Summer Outings at City Playgrounds

With hundreds of families expected to take advantage of low cost outings offered, the Los Angeles municipal mountain camps will start their summer vacation season on June 18, it was announced today by the city's playground and recreation department.

On that date, Camp Seelye and Camp Radford, rustic municipal playgrounds in the San Bernardino mountains will open their summer program, with Camp High Sierra in the High Sierras north of Bishop, California, scheduled to open a week later.

In order to provide vacations for families who otherwise might be unable to enjoy such outings due to economic reasons, the playground and recreation department has made reductions in the rates charged at these city camps, particularly in the case of children's rates.

SUN NEVER SETS ON OLD GLORY REVERED BY NATION SINCE 1777

Less than a year after the Liberty Bell rang out to celebrate the Declaration of Independence, the Stars and Stripes became the official flag of our country on June 14, 1777. The anniversary is now observed as Flag Day. At Right: U. S. Marines on parade with the National Flag and their regimental colors.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL DOINGS

The perfect attendance party was held Wednesday, during the noon hour. Children who had not been absent or tardy throughout the term were invited. Two hundred seventy-five pupils attended and they were given certificates and refreshments. For a number of years this party has been sponsored by Principal William M. Bell, Jr. The keen interest of the pupils in this event has been most satisfactory in maintaining a high standard of attendance.

The splendid profit from the operetta, "Mother Goose Extravaganza," after deducting the small expense of $5.61, amounted to $127.73. This money will be used exclusively for child welfare work.

Mrs. Irene Jessup, music supervisor, visited the upper grades last Friday. She was well pleased with the two-part music in the B5 grades.

Members of the executive board of the Parent Teachers Association will serve a luncheon to members of the faculty tomorrow, June 17.

Among the classroom parties of interest was the one which Mrs. Nelle Bradford held at her home, 1226 Acacia street.

WEDDING CEREMONY AT JUSTICE OFFICE

Ralph Allen Smith, fireman in the U. S. N., and Miss Ruth Genevieve Wilkinson, 2319 Center street, Lomita, were united in marriage Saturday at the office of Justice of the Peace John Dennis. James H. Richardson and James T. Lively witnessed the ceremony.

We Americans may well be proud of our flag. It is the most beautiful of all national colors, and has pointed the way to freedom for countless thousands. It stands for patriotism, loyalty and fidelity to the ideals of America. For 155 years it has been waving in the breeze, the most-beloved symbol of our country.

Woodrow Wilson said: "This flag, which we honor and under which we serve, is the emblem of our unity, our power, our thought and purpose as a nation. It has no other character than that which we give it from generation to generation."

"The choices are ours. It floats in majestic silence above the hosts that execute those choices, whether in peace or in war. And yet, though silent, it speaks to us—speaks to us of the past, of the men and women who went before us, and of the records they wrote upon it."

On June 14, 1777, the Continental Congress decided "that the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

In the intervening years it has remained unchanged, save only for an occasional variation in the number of stripes and the addition of a star for each new state.

The story of the flag is the story of the nation. It has kept pace with the march of events that followed the Revolution, and has braved the battle and the breeze during more than a century and a half of national growth.

Its influence has gradually extended around the globe, and in our generation the sun never sets on the Stars and Stripes. Every minute of the twenty-four hours, somewhere on our planet the folds of Old Glory are flying in the breeze.

It is the custom of the U. S. Marines to raise the flag every morning at eight o'clock. It remains flying until sunset.

Three hours after the U. S. Marines at New York, Boston, Norfolk and other east coast naval stations have raised the flag, the Marines at posts along the Pacific seaboard present arms to the colors as they are hoisted smartly to the top of the flagstaff—the time interval varying only when daylight saving is in vogue.

About two and a half hours later the ceremony is repeated in the Hawaiian Islands. More than five hours have rolled around before the flag is raised by the soldiers of the sea in the far-off Philippines, and at virtually the same hour in Shanghai, China, the Marines of the Fourth Regiment hoist the flag above their regimental headquarters.

Several hours later the westward march of daylight catches the fluttering folds of the Stars and Stripes flying over American Consulates in the Near East or in Europe, and when the sun has passed its zenith in the Old World, the flag is again flung to the breeze on the Atlantic seaboard.

Thus the Stars and Stripes makes its appearance in the early morning in all parts of the globe, and remains flying until the sun disappears over the horizon.

Our flag has never been a symbol of military aggression. At home or abroad, afloat on the seven seas, or in some far distant outpost, it is America's guarantee of justice to those who seek protection under its folds.

Order Survey of Appian Way

Instructions were given the county surveyor's office today to make a survey of Appian way, from the Los Angeles city boundary southerly to Granvia Miralste, by the board of supervisors. The surveyor's office also will make surveys of two other streets, Valley View avenue from Anaheim-Telegraph road southerly to Artesia avenue, and Carmona Road from Anaheim-Telegraph road southerly to the county line.

County Dog License Would Be Too Costly

Bearing the signatures of several hundred residents of the southwestern part of the county, Karl Steffe of Ingewood this week filed a petition with the board of supervisors protesting a county dog license ordinance. He believes it would cost more to collect the license than would be realized from the fees, and that it would mean another job on the county payroll for a corps of collectors, dog catchers and more expense.
