

"Is Zat So" Pals In "Oh Yeah"

Armstrong and Gleason In Roles That Provide Thrills and Comedy

"Oh Yeah!" from the Saturday Evening Post story "No Brakes," by A. W. Somerville, brings together two notable actors who made such a tremendous stage success of "Is Zat So"—Robert Armstrong and James Gleason. The production has just been booked for Wednesday and Thursday, September 13 and 14, at the Lomita Theatre.

The feminine roles in "Oh Yeah!" are portrayed by Patricia Caron and Zasu Pitts, whose droll humor has added to the entertainment value of some of the greatest motion picture successes in film history.

"TUGBOAT ANNIE" COMES TO TORRANCE TONIGHT

WALLACE BEERY and MARIE DRESSLER in "TUGBOAT ANNIE"

With Marie Dressler as Annie, redoubtable feminine skipper of Puget Sound, and Wallace Beery as the irresponsible but irresistible Captain Terry, "Tugboat Annie," much heralded filmization of Norman Pettibone's Saturday Evening Post stories, shows tonight, Friday and Saturday at the Torrance Theatre. The picture marks the first co-starring appearance of Miss Dressler and Beery since the memorable "Min and Bill."

JAMES DUNN AND SALLY EILERS IN NEW TRIUMPH AT TORRANCE

In their fifth film together since their memorable performance in "Bad Girl," James Dunn and Sally Eilers have the stellar roles in "Hold Me Tight," the new romantic drama from Fox, showing Tuesday and Wednesday, September 12 and 13, at the Torrance Theatre. Cast as two young lovers in the midst of the metropolis and its attendant snares, these two popular young players have the type of characterizations for which they have become known as one of the screen's outstanding teams. They are both employees in the city's largest department store, and both have vivid dreams of success and happiness together. In a series of climaxes that are reported as truly stirring, they overcome obstacles that threaten their well-being at every turn. These obstacles come not only from the outside, but are developed out of their own fears and insecurity. In the supporting cast, headed by Frank McHugh and June Clyde, are Kenneth Thomson, Noel Francis, Dorothy Peterson and Clay Clement. David Butler directed "Hold Me Tight" from the story by Gertrude Rigdon and the screen play by Gladys Lehman.

Dancing-Comedy Headliners On Torrance Stage

Singing, Dancing, Music and Comedy Feature Notable Vaudeville Bill

There are a wealth of surprises to be found on the bill at the Torrance Theatre this coming Tuesday and Wednesday with the vaudeville portion of the bill containing an unusual amount of entertainment.

A variety revue is promised by Betty Gordon and her five boy friends in which singing, dancing and excellent music are featured. Miss Gordon has appeared on the coast each season with her own revue but her offering this year is said to surpass any of her previous presentations. The act is handsomely costumed and presented in a very original style. These two ambassadors of mirth, Sam Farnum and Joe Kay, eastern favorites in musical comedy, have a hilarious hodge-podge of comedy and singing in which a "surprise" finish is featured.

The Jackson Brothers have a "red hot" dance offering that hits on all six cylinders. These colored boys were the dancing hits of the colored musical comedy, "Lucky Day" and Eugene Jackson will be remembered for his excellent work in the motion picture, "Camarro."

Speaking of motion pictures brings one to mention "Dauntless," the canine star, trained by Roy Wilson, this clever animal performs a routine of feats which are uncanny because of the intelligence displayed. On the screen the feature picture will be "Hold Me Tight," starring James Dunn and Sally Eilers.

Reservations Coming Fast For Midnight Show

Big Crowd Expected Saturday Night For First Night Matinee

Reservations for the big midnight show, first time in this district, at the Lomita Theatre, Saturday, September 9, are rapidly coming in, says Manager J. D. Baker, who has planned a gala entertainment for all who visit his show shop on that night.

Lupe Velez and Lee Tracy in "The Half-Naked Truth." What a combination! Fun, laughter, romance and southern fire and loveliness. And on the stage, ten big acts of sure fire vaudeville! Free confetti and novelties for the audience. All the gaiety of a night club and none of the headaches. And the surprising part of it is that there has been only a very small advance in the price for this deluxe entertainment, clean, wholesome fun that the women folks can enjoy without a blush.

Nothing is too good for the patrons of the Lomita Theatre, says Manager Baker. The list of pictures, features and specialties proves that the slogan is no empty brag.
