Companion picture the same days brings Norman Foster and Judith Allen in "Behind the Green Lights."

Cagney Tougher In "G-Men" Than In Gangster Role

The leap from gangster to cop would not appear such a long jump for some players, but the last person one would expect to succumb to the cause of law and order is Jimmy Cagney. Nevertheless, the one and only Cagney, tough guy of the movies, has turned federal sleuth in the First National production "G-Men," now showing at the Plaza Theatre, Hawthorne, in which, as a member of the United States department of justice, he tracks down and eliminates the very type of character he has so often portrayed. Cagney is still the tough guy—tougher even than he has ever been before. Gregory Rogers, author of "G Men," built his story around the headlines that have been chasing one another across the front pages of American newspapers for the last two or three years. He was inspired by the heroic deeds of a man who has knocked the very foundations out from under gangdom—and he gave the title "G Men" to his scenario.

'Werewolf of London' Comes to Plaza Wed.

The oddest, most gripping and daring film of the year has been booked for a showing at the Plaza Theatre, Hawthorne, on next Wednesday. It is "Universal's" "Werewolf of London," a story based on the fabled werewolf legend which has been handed down through the ages, and is still prevalent in Central Europe. A werewolf is a man who, because of a curse, becomes transformed into a wolf each night during the full of the moon. The remainder of the time he assumes his natural form and leads the same life as any other human. The legend is that if a man is bitten by a werewolf he then becomes a werewolf himself. In "Werewolf of London" Henry Hull, great character actor, is the man who has been bitten by a werewolf. And the entire story is laid around his life and actions in England after he has become aware of his terrible affliction. Warner Oland, Valerie Hobson, Lenore Matthews, Spring Byington, Clark Williams, J. M. Kerrigan and Charlotte Granville are a few of the other noted players in this film.

FOREST FIRE lends thrill to "THE HEALER"

Authentic scenes of a large forest fire which sweeps down into a peaceful valley, wiping out a partial health resort in its fiery path of destruction, provides the background for the thrilling climax of "The Healer," the Monogram photoplay based on Robert Herrick's famous novel, which comes to the Torrance Theatre tonight, Friday and Saturday, with Ralph Bellamy, Karen Morley and Mickey Rooney in the leading roles. The inclusion of these forest fire scenes was the result of the unfortunate, though unfortunate, circumstance that a large fire swept over a vast area of the Sierra Madre mountains during the time the picture was in production. Monogram executives immediately ordered the company to the scene of the conflagration, and after the necessary scenes were secured, all members of the troupe pitched in and labored for hours helping the fire fighters extinguish the blaze. Among the members of the cast who turned impromptu firemen for the occasion were Ralph Bellamy, J. Farrell MacDonald, Robert McCade, Bruce Warren and even little Mickey Rooney, while they were ably abetted by such feminine members of the cast as Karen Morley, Judith Allen and Yessie Farrell. Even Director Reginald Barker and members of his technical crew took their turns with shovels and axes.

FILM PROVES life of cameraman IS DANGEROUS

"Hot news to a waiting world." By this credo lives the newsreel cameraman, perhaps the bravest unsung hero of modern days. No trip too hazardous, no scene too dangerous, no camera angle too difficult for this most important recorder of current events. The character of the newsreel man is brought to the screen by the new Columbia drama, "Men of the Hour," which opens Sunday for three days at the Torrance Theatre, featuring Richard Cromwell and Wallace Ford as two of these incorrigible daredevils and Billie Seward as a nurse who captures both their hearts. "Men of the Hour" is Cromwell's first picture for Columbia, his home studio, since his appearance in "The Lives of a Bengal Lancer" and "Life Begins at Forty." Wallace Ford has recently been seen in "The Whole Town's Talking," "In Spite of Danger" and "Swell-Head," while Billie Seward, a comparative newcomer to the screen, enacts her fifth leading part in this film. Jack La Rue, Wesley Barry and Pat O'Malley appear in supporting roles. "Men of the Hour" is directed from the story and screen play by Anthony Coloway.

Lomita Merchants Win Big Slugfest

Twenty-six runs and 31 hits were chalked up in Sunday's game between the Lomita Merchants and the Golden Bear Winery club of Los Angeles, played on the Merchants home lot. Out of this cyclone of hits and runs the Merchants gathered 16 of each to win the Golden Bears scoring 15 hits and 19 runs. Davenport pitched for the locals, Thompson and Roberts for the visitors. Harbor City Merchants defeated the Wilson Jersey club, 12-6, on the Tottee diamond at Wilmington.

Further Effort Made to Bring Exposition to Alondra Park

Whether it will be possible to lease Alondra park north of Torrance as a site for a "world's fair" to be held probably in 1937 or 1938 was expected to be determined shortly by the county counsel's office, by request of the board of supervisors this week.

NAVY FOOTBALL stars are assigned TO COAST DUTY

Stars of the Annapolis football team that defeated Army last year for the first time since 1926, will start their stint on San Pedro's navy field this fall. It was indicated today with their assignment to various warships, says the San Pedro News-Pilot. Ensign "Buz" Borries, as announced in the News-Pilot 10 days ago, will move aboard the Perry, while Ensign "Dorah" Dorah, who caught Borries' pass to beat Notre Dame, will take up quarters on the New Mexico. Ensign Dick Burns, who captained the team, will join the New York. Other assignments send Ensigns Bill Clark and Leonard Baird to the Colorado; Ensign Swede Larsen to the Lexington, and Ensign Gordon Schechter to the Idaho. Ensign James Mini and Ensign Kenneth Schacht will also join the New Mexico.

Two groups are actively sponsoring an exposition to be held in Los Angeles to commemorate completion of the Colorado aqueduct, the Boulder dam transmission line, the $20,000,000 Union passenger terminal and possibly a new $15,000,000 county court house, but only one group has thus far been interested in staging it at Alondra Park. This group is headed by Lee D. Matthews of Los Angeles, who appeared before the supervisors Monday to press a request for an option on the park site. Matthews said his group had decided that Alondra Park was the most desirable site available, well served by important paved highways, near the harbor and the Los Angeles municipal airport, and not far distant from both the Pacific Electric and the terminal of the Los Angeles Street railway in Hawthorne. He reported a statement made to the supervisors several months ago, that his group was willing to agree to retire $51,000 worth of the $1,114,000 in A. and I. bonds issued for purchase of the 290-acre site, as well as the interest payment on the bonds. An option is wanted for a year, inside of which time it will be determined whether a lease is wanted, he explained. Matthews said some of the men on his committee had been associated with the Panama Exposition and with the San Diego Exposition of 1914. Supervisor John R. Quinn said he favored the proposal if it was legal, since it would relieve the property owners in the assessment district. On Quinn's motion, the committee was sent to the county counsel's office.

Good Entertainment At the Bal Tabarin

People who travel to far away places to find good food and entertainment, or drinks that are mixed "just right" may save themselves the trouble and expense of a long trip by visiting the Bal Tabarin, at Western avenue and Riverside Redondo, by a few rods where all these things are served and served right. It's all there under one roof, food, dancing, entertainment and refreshments served by bar men who are good mixers, says the management. Luella Hall, who is returning after several weeks absence; Nat Taylor, cabaret screen star; C. C. Caldwell and his orchestra, and a floor show produced by "Bob" and "Fatty" Drinkard offer entertainment that is in a class by itself.

Gas Tax Funds Apportioned

Torrance profited this year to the amount of $9,019 as its share of the one-quarter cent per gallon gasoline tax collected by the state and apportioned to the cities under the law passed in 1933. Five cities in the state, which were incorporated after the passage, will receive nothing, but will share in the future apportionments. They are Gardena, Indio, Westmoreland, Bayshore and Fairfax. Amounts received by communities in this vicinity are El Segundo, $4,345; Hawthorne, $8,182; Hermosa Beach, $5,949; Inglewood, $2,165; Long Beach, $17,431; Manhattan Beach, $2,345; Redondo Beach, $11,594; Signal Hill, $2,637. Apportionment is based on a population basis.

"Tobacco Road" In Return Engagement

"Tobacco Road," which opened at the Hollywood Music Box Theatre, Monday evening, June 24, with Henry Hull, the original New York star, smashed all hit records for a year when it played this spring at the Jansen Theatre in Los Angeles. This thrilling dramatic and magnificent performance by Hull was forced to leave Los Angeles after nine weeks to fulfill a date in San Francisco. From San Francisco, "Tobacco Road" was to tour the country, but the overwhelming popular demand was so great in the Southland, that it has returned to Los Angeles for another two weeks engagement before it leaves on its nation-wide tour. The management announces that this return engagement must be absolutely limited to two weeks, and is making it possible for everyone to see this play by an extremely popular scale of low prices. In addition there will be bargain matinees, Wednesdays and Saturdays. The management reports a very lively demand for seats, and in order to facilitate the convenience of patrons throughout the Southland, mail and phone orders are given prompt attention, and the box office is open daily from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.
