Paris Styles

By MARY KNIGHT
United Press Staff Correspondent
PARIS. (U.P.)—When standing before your wardrobe wavering in doubt as to what to put on, better reach for a skirt. The "little suit" is the "long suit" of our smartest women over here.

With it goes a high hat and plain kidskin pumps. If the day and the occasion present that "special moment" we suggest a glamorous lame blouse as a surprise to come forth when the trim little jacket is removed. Men like their ladies to be tailored and conservative outside, with all the whimsy saved for the second and subsequent layers—sort of a heaven and earth combination that is most desirable though difficult of achievement.

Patou has made some of the most perfect blouses for this purpose you can find anywhere. Lots of them are of the sheerest chiffon with shirring near the shoulders to give fullness to the billowy sleeves. There is usually a touch of lame in gold or silver or a satin collar and cuffs and demure little bow tie.

Sometimes, odd bright buttons is all these blouses need to give them that indefinable air of aloofness and wonder. In this case, the real discriminating touch is to have earrings that match the buttons.

TODAY'S FASHION TIP
The "little suit" is all important, trim and tailored, to contrast with informality of the blouse to be worn with it.

YOUNGER FOLKS FROLIC AT LEVY HOME
Miss Ella Levy was a charming hostess when she entertained members of the school set at the Levy home, 1503 El Prado avenue, Saturday evening. Dancing furnished diversion. A buffet supper was served in the party were Johnston, Laurella Lancaster, Mary Peckham, Patty Post, Joan Klink, Dorothy McMillan, Ruth Barnard, all of Torrance; Harriet Talpis and Mildred Ginsberg, of Los Angeles; Messrs. Hal Smith, Johnny McFadden, Garland Johnson, Chuck Williams, Vernon Coll, Jack Keefe, Jimmy Shidler, all of Torrance; Harry Levine and Norman Glikman, of Los Angeles.

MRS. HATTON HOSTESS TO BRIDGE CLUB
Mrs. Ralph Hatton, 1813 Acacia avenue, was hostess when she entertained members of her bridge club with a luncheon at her home Thursday. Covers were placed for Mesdames Harry McManus, Gwendolyn Knudsen, F. H. Clark, A. P. Stevenson, J. E. Haggard, May McKinley, Bert Dye, F. C. Winkler, Paul Watson, J. O. Moore, W. H. Shaw and the hostess.

Prizes in bridge play were awarded to Mesdames Haggard, Dye and Winkler.

CONVALESCING AT HOME
Mrs. B. H. Engenfelder, 1311 218th street, is convalescing at her home. She recently returned from Seattle where she underwent a major operation. While there she was cared for by her son, Dr. John Engenfelder.

Girl Is Fined For Failure to Stop In Passing School Bus
Rose T. Kubota, residing on one of the Palos Verdes ranches, plead guilty before Judge Esther I. Dennis, of the Pomona township justice court on January 3, to a misdemeanor and was fined $25 which she paid. Her sentence also included the suspension of her driver's license for a period of 30 days.

Miss Kubota was charged with failure to stop before passing a school bus which had stopped to discharge passengers. A little boy ran in front of the bus and against the rear fender of Miss Kubota's car. He was knocked down and suffered a skull fracture which resulted in his death several hours later.

DRAKES FETE EASTERN VISITORS

To introduce visitors from the east to friends here, Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Drake, 1750 Martina avenue, entertained with a pirate bridge party at the American Legion hall, Friday evening. Six tables of bridge were in play with prizes for all. At the end of each game the prize for high score changed hands as did the booty prize. Mrs. Paul Kasper finished with the high for ladies. Tom Ulrich with high for men. The booty prizes were held by Mrs. H. C. Harrington and Malcolm Gross.

Following the bridge game a buffet supper was served and the group danced to music furnished by Tom Ulrich until the wee hours.

In the party were Mrs. Harry Ziegenfus, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Ross and V. H. Stockel, of Allentown, Pennsylvania; Mr. and Mrs. John Cook and Ellis Clover, of Los Angeles; Messrs. and Mesdames Tom Ulrich, Paul Kasper, Al Strom; E. L.
