Hollace Shaw is Grand Winner of California's Hour

Hollace Shaw, young coloratura soprano of Claremont and former Pomona college student, is the grand prize winner of "California's Hour," popular radio program. Miss Shaw received the largest number of listener-votes after the contest finals. As an award she was presented with a $500 check by the program sponsors, the California Chain Stores association.

To win, Miss Shaw first won her own community salute program, made up of Claremont and Pomona artists, with a prize of $50. Next she won in a semi-final program against other community winners, and at that time was awarded a $100 prize. Last week she attained the highest goal in the entire series of some 30 weeks.

"California's Hour" is now in a new series, featuring salutes to the universities. The first university selected was U. C. L. A., which was saluted Monday. Next Monday Stanford will be the honored school, with six acts of student talent on the program.

STARS APPEAR IN DIFFERENT ROLES

A new Kay Francis and an equally new George Brent are revealed by their remarkable characterizations in "Give Me Your Heart," which opens Sunday at the Torrance theatre.

DODSWORTH MEETS EDITH CORTRIGHT

Walter Huston and Mary Astor in a dramatic scene from Samuel Goldwyn's film production of Sinclair Lewis' "Dodsworth," which comes to the Torrance theatre tonight, Friday and Saturday.

"LENS FRIGHT" BESETS MARY ASTOR FIRST DAY ON SET

"First day" on a picture set holds all the terrors for Mary Astor that a "first night" holds for a stage actress. For Miss Astor, after 12 years in the top ranks of film stars, still undergoes an acute attack of jitters whenever she faces a camera for the first time on a new picture.

"Silly? Sure," the red-headed actress laughs at herself. "I've known times when I finished a picture on Saturday, calm and cool as a cucumber, and the following Monday when I started a new one I'd be as nervous as a cat again."

Hilarious Character Screened Now As 'Piccadilly Jim'

"Piccadilly Jim," one of the most hilarious characters to come from the pen of England's foremost humorist, P. G. Wodehouse, now makes his appearance on the screen with the debonair Robert Montgomery aptly filling the title role. Also prominent in the new picture, which opens tonight at the Torrance theatre, are Frank Morgan and pretty Madge Evans.

Fed. Theatres Year Old in L. A. This Week

First anniversaries are always an event, and when Uncle Sam has one, it's a gala occasion indeed. Federal Theatres of Los Angeles county is one year old this week, and the new fall production schedule discloses an impressive lineup of current and forthcoming attractions as a "birthday" treat for amusement lovers.

After two successful engagements at the Musart and a road tour of Southern California towns, "The Devil Passes," Benn W. Levy's subtle, sophisticated hit, is scheduled for a Hollywood Playhouse engagement beginning Tuesday night, Nov. 10.

Thursday night, Nov. 12, ushers in an important opening at the Musart, 1320 South Figueroa, where "The Class of '29," modern drama by Orrie Lashin and Milo Hastings, young New York playwrights, will have its Pacific coast premiere.

"The Fool," Channing Pollock's famous drama, is now in its final week at the Mason, closing Sunday evening, Nov. 15, to continue an extended tour of California towns. No change is scheduled for the Theatre of the Magic, Strings, 3834 Wilshire boulevard, where "Captain Kidd" is the Wednesday and Saturday matinee puppet attraction, and "Petrouchka" holds the stage evenings from Wednesday to Saturday inclusive.

Enliven Wodehouse Hilarities

Robert Montgomery and Madge Evans in a scene from "Piccadilly Jim"

Hollywood's adaptation of the P. G. Wodehouse comedy, "Piccadilly Jim," opens at the Plaza theatre Sunday.

An exceptional all-star cast adds to the merits of the story itself and the direction by Robert Z. Leonard is superb. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has taken Wodehouse at his face value and it proves to be a gold mine of mirth. They give his original story visible and audible life, but otherwise it is unchanged.

Robert Montgomery is excellent in the title role. Madge Evans is a lovely lady opposite him and Frank Morgan, appears as his father, an actor in love with a woman of high social station in London. Billie Burke, widow of Florenz Ziegfeld, makes her first screen appearance under her new M-G-M contract and plays a truly delightful role. Eric Blore and others in the cast keep up the pace.

Do You Remember Paul Revere's Ride?

He was delayed "WHY" maybe he stopped at the EMBASSY and played a few games.

Imagine a guy on a horse riding through the night in the rain, knocking at people's doors and yelling at the top of his voice. Why is he in such a hurry? He wants to get back to the Embassy as soon as he can.

And so, hoping to greet you very soon with a pleasant smile and a cheerful good evening, I remain —E. P.

Kay Francis In Poignant Drama

"Give Me Your Heart" to Open On Sunday

"Give Me Your Heart," a poignant screen drama based on the famous stage play by Jay Mallory, "Sweet Aloes," has been booked at the Torrance theatre beginning next Sunday, with glamorous Kay Francis in the stellar role.

The picture, a Cosmopolitan production released by Warner Bros., which is said to give Miss Francis the finest dramatic opportunity of her career, presents her as an ultra modern young Englishwoman who seeks happiness in glorious surroundings in London, New York and Italy.

The plot is daring, the situations novel in the extreme, but most striking of all is the treatment which is frank and brilliant, but clean and in good taste.

The unusually talented cast supporting Miss Francis, includes George Brent, Roland

Young, Patric Knowles, Henry Stephenson, Frieda Inescort, Helen Flint, Halliwell Hobbes, Zeffie Tibury and Eispeth Dudgeon.
