Painter Found Dead In Bed At Home Here

Found dead in his bed Sunday by a young woman friend who came from Los Angeles to call on him, William F. Vassier, 56-year-old painter, was a victim of a sudden heart attack sometime last Saturday, according to police reports.

He lived in one of the Spurlin Court houses and had been a resident here for the past eight or nine years. Mr. Vassier was not married and had relatives in St. Louis. An autopsy determined the cause of his abrupt passing. He was last seen on Friday and when found was fully clothed, indicating that the attack occurred during the day-time.

Friends in Inglewood and local associates arranged for the committal following graveside services at Inglewood cemetery yesterday afternoon.

TORRANCE HIGH LIGHTS . . . by Alice Taylor & Dorothy Elder

Strutting Seniors . . . Monday morning found the seniors strutting around the campus in their new chocolate brown corduroy jackets with brown and white emblems. They arrived Friday evening. This idea of having jackets is original as all other senior classes have had sweaters.

Friendship Talks . . . The juniors and seniors were excused from their classes last Thursday to the study hall to attend a symposium on World Friendship. Five student speakers from Washington high school and two from Torrance gave in the evening talks. The speakers from Torrance were Jean Streitwaiser and Lorraine Hill.

Ball Casualty . . . Everyone was glad to see Clep Maupin back at school after spraining his ankle. This occurred last week at a practice baseball game with Narbonne.

President Resigns . . . The Torrance Forum held its monthly meeting Monday night. Margaret Hogue, president, offered her resignation because of holding too many offices, and Johnny McDonald was moved up to president. Dorothy Elder was elected the new vice-president. Laura May Hyde gave an interesting talk on her recent trip to Washington. Refreshments followed.

Playday Enjoyed . . . At the playday at Gardena high school April 7, the G. A. A. girls had a fine time. We can't say they came out victorious because there was no one school competing against another. It enabled everyone to become acquainted, and there were no ill feelings for losing in any game. The Torrance girls had their new red shorts for this playday and they certainly made striking outfits with their new G. A. A. sweaters. After the games there was a splendid program, and refreshments followed.

rance was sixth on the list of 24 schools. Some schools had an attendance average as low as 70.85 percent while Torrance had an average of 94.73 percent.

See Art Exhibit . . . Several students from the art classes attended the Gardena art exhibit Wednesday. Everyone agreed that the paintings were very fine.

ON SURPRISE VISIT Mr. and Mrs. Willis M. Brooks were pleasantly surprised this week when their son, Phillips, arrived from Stanford University for a brief visit. Another son, Comet Brooks, recently arrived from New York University to spend his vacation at home.

H.S. Principal Tells Views About Teacher Transfers to Other Schools

"Before I approve of any transfers from the high school faculty to other schools in the Los Angeles district I want to be assured that the new teachers will be capable, experienced and just as efficient as the teacher who wants to enter another school."

So declared Principal Thomas Elson of the high school this week in discussing this matter of "transfers" which has become a major point of interest among instructors because of the fact that about seven new high and junior high schools are scheduled to open in the Los Angeles district next fall.

Contrary to some reports here,

Principal Elson expects that only about four transfers will be allowed from the local high school. Two of these have already been made—Raymond J. Casey to Poly high school and Coach Bernard J. Donahue to Hamilton high school.

May 1 is Deadline As yet no permanent selection has been made of a shop instructor to fill Casey's place. Donahue's post was assumed two weeks ago by Roy Cochran, formerly of Hamilton. Principal Elson is still in quest of a teacher to take Casey's position which is now being held by Oscar Trygg.

Although the local school head anticipates but two other transfers, some Los Angeles high schools will see as many as seven instructors taking positions in the new institutions opening this fall.

"I believe that we are building a progressive educational force in Torrance and I don't look for a wholesale shift in teachers here," Elson said. "I would not like to see any of our faculty leave but if one or two more desirable transfers—and the deadline for such requests is May 1—then I intend to see that the instructors who take their places are fully as capable and seasoned as the ones we have."
