Cooking "ain't what it used to be!"
Yes sir, like everything else, the art of preparing and serving a meal has gone streamlined. It's modern, now. It's up to date. It's new, and pleasant and economical and labor-saving.

The housewives of Torrance and surrounding communities will have a royal opportunity to observe these changes and take advantage of the many kitchen short cuts that culinary experts have spent years in developing at the Herald-Gas Co. Free School of Gas Cookery which takes place next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in the Torrance Civic Auditorium.

Miss Jessie B. Ewing, noted home economist, will be in charge, there will be many free prizes and gifts and vereybody is sure to spend a profitable three days.

So grab a pencil (you'll want to jot down many of the hints given) bring a friend and attend the School! You'll enjoy it!
