HOUSING ACT BENEFITS CITED BY MAYOR

Business and Residential Structures Said Easily Financed Here

Organized about two months ago, the Better Housing committee of Torrance has succeeded in bringing to the attention of many residents the opportunities offered them through the provisions of the National Housing Act, according to Mayor W. H. Tolson, chairman of the committee.

"Many, both present and prospective, home owners have taken advantage of the committee's advice and assistance, and are well on the way to having a home of their own," Mayor Tolson said.

He feels, however, that the provisions of Title I of the National Housing Act offers opportunities which should be called to the attention of Torrance residents, now, as this section of the Act, although revised and revived February 3, was written to expire July 1, 1936.

"To owners of property or those occupying properties under satisfactory leases, it offers a fine opportunity to bring their properties up to date, to re-condition them, and increase their livability, use, and potential income," he said.

Under this section funds up to $10,000 may be borrowed to improve property of any type for the purpose of financing alterations, repairs and improvements. Many large, old residences which have been thrown on the market for sale or rent because of the changing neighborhood; but with the addition of extra plumbing, a change of a wall here and there, extra stairway, etc., can be made over into an income property.

"The business man also can profit by this provision," the Mayor continued. "He may obtain funds which the FHA will insure, to repair and modernize his business property. A new store front, painting, new flooring, new heating, air-conditioning systems, in fact, anything which becomes an integral part of the structure itself. Such loans come under Class 1 of Title I of the Act, and are repayable to suit the individual's income, monthly, weekly or seasonally, over periods up to five years. The total charges including interest, cannot be more than the equivalent of 85 discount per $100, original face value of a one-year note."

Class 2 loans, under Title I, may be made in amounts up to $2,500, also repayable within five years and the same charges as Class 1, and the funds may be used to erect new structures exclusive of those used wholly or in part for residential purposes, such as barns, service buildings of various types, wayside stands, gasoline stations, and various commercial and industrial buildings. The loan may include the cost of heating or lighting systems and similar items built into the structure itself but not the cost of equipment used in the operation of the business occupying the structure.

Class 3 loan, under Title I, may be made in amounts up to $2,500 for the purpose of erecting new structures used wholly or in part for residential purposes. The total amount borrowed, however, must be used to finance the cost of building a new structure, and not be applied to the purchase of the land.

"This Class 3 loan opens the way for those in the low-income group as it permits the erection of a small home in areas which would not qualify under Title II of the Act. Loans in this class may have a final maturity up to seven years, and the maximum permissible finance charge may not be in excess of an amount equivalent to 85.50 discount per $100, original face amount of a one-year note payable in equal monthly installments," Mayor Tolson concluded.

Gas Lines to Serve Oil Area Recommended

Granting of a permit to the Lomita Gasoline company to install a 10-inch wet natural gas line and one six-inch dry natural gas line across the Los Angeles river bed immediately below the Cerritos trestle was recommended to the board of supervisors late last week by C. H. Howell, chief flood control engineer.

Additional development of the area west of the river as an oil field is indicated by the recent completion of one well about 200 feet west of the river and north of Carson street, Howell told the board.

Land owned by the flood control district below the Cerritos trestle is under lease for oil drilling operations, and as the new well is in close proximity to the district's leased land, these pipes of the Lomita Gasoline company will also service offset wells on the lease, Howell pointed out.

Restrictions which will protect the lines will be permitted under re-construction of the two pipe district and the county from any possible future damage, Howell assured the board.

QUESTIONS

Just what is a mackerel sky? You've heard of Anzac's—what are they? Think hard, now! Here comes a question we couldn't answer: We had to be told the answer. What is Jack Dempsey's full name?

TODAY'S PROVERB

"Be not simply good—be good for something."—Thoreau.
 We've probably used that proverb before, but it will bear repeating.

ANSWERS

A mackerel sky is a sky flecked with little white clouds. It's perfectly correct to use that term.

Well, friends, some of you were wrong about Anzac! Anzacs are members of the Australian and New Zealand army corps. The name is formed from the first letters of those words.

Jack Dempsey's full name is William Harrison Dempsey.
