Students Visit Banks

Upon taking office as president, Mr. LeBold stated: "One of the main objectives of the association in its cooperation with educational groups is that school pupils be given every opportunity to learn the elementary fundamentals of banking. Cooperating with the organization are the 175 member branch banks that offer their banking rooms to the schools to be used as a supplementary classroom. Our experience the past year in the development of this new phase of thrift education has been most enlightening and it is planned to further this broad treatment of thrift practice instruction."

The scope of the activities of the association covers forty school districts in the city and county and includes 300 schools. Under the direction of A. J. Gray the School Savings association is now entering its 18th year sponsoring the work of the School Savings section which carries the full cooperation and approval of A. B. Clifton, superintendent, Los Angeles county schools and Vierling Kelsey, superintendent, Los Angeles city school district.

Member Banks

The member banks of the Los Angeles City & County School Savings association are the following: Bank of America, California Bank, Citizens National Trust & Savings Bank of Los Angeles, Security-First National Bank, Farmers and Merchants National Bank of Los Angeles, Union Bank & Trust Company, American National Bank of Santa Monica, Beverly Hills National Bank and Trust Company, Burbank State Bank, Compton National Bank, Farmers & Merchants Bank of Gardena, Farmers and Merchants Bank of Watts, Santa Monica Commercial & Savings Bank, and Torrance National Bank.

Adams, local pastor, said. The rally was part of a fellowship conference of Full Gospel and independent churches which opened Monday at the Lomita church. The conference, with nearly 100 ministers attending, continued thru Wednesday.
