

Solitaire Expert Plays 22 Games Daily for Years

OSHKOSH, Wis. (U.P.)—A thumbnail sketch of Otto (Scout) Ziebell, if not the best, at least the nation's most persistent solitaire player.

He has played an average of 22 games daily for nearly six years; he uses a new deck every three weeks because he wears the spots off the cards; he knows at least 25 different versions, his best record: 15 victories out of 24; his worst: 3 out of 27.

A Spanish-American war veteran, Ziebell, 66, worked with a construction firm 25 years without missing a day. He retired in 1930.

Two Accused of Drunk Driving After Accidents

Arrested after he was involved in a slight collision with a truck driven by some Japanese at Torrance boulevard and Hawthorne avenue, Mose Snider, 25, of Wilmington, was charged with driving while intoxicated Saturday. His trial was set for Friday and he was released on $150 bail. No one was injured in the accident.

Following an accident on Highway 101 near Waverly, Martin Clarence Williams, 32, of Los Angeles, was charged with driving while intoxicated Saturday. He pleaded not guilty at his arraignment and will have a court trial Nov. 27 at 10 a. m. Williams was released on his own recognizance.

Let's Talk Much Ado About Kissing

By Arthur Dean, Sc. D.

Real salesmanship lies in knowing what a kiss is worth, and to whom it should be given. I'd like to warn girls against indiscriminate selling of a valuable commodity.

I believe in kisses and I know they have a real value. Some girls sell a "good night kiss" for the price of a ten-cent movie seat. Others pass them out for an hour in a parked car.

Some most generously and thoughtlessly give them away to every Tom, Dick and Harry for the sake of cheap and temporary popularity. Some hang on to their kisses as though each were in itself a gold mine.

Selling kisses sounds too commercial. What I really mean is, giving kisses when there is something besides just a boy's SYMBOL A kiss is a symbol of love, but some girls give them away indiscriminately for the sake of temporary popularity, says Dr. Dean. The real wisdom involves knowing when, what, whom and why to kiss, and when, what, where, whom and why not to kiss. . . . Read his suggestions.

A kiss is a symbol. It is legal tender for love, understanding and deep affection. It is common and cheap to give it away for the mere asking.

When a girl writes me: "He demanded a kiss on his first date when he took me to a show," my thought is, "Is a first kiss worth more than a seat at the movie? Is it something which one gives offhand or does it go with something more than a first date?"

When a girl tells me: "I turned him down; he pestered me, mauled me, and made a fool of himself," I feel like saying, "Why kiss a fool or a mauler—one who insults your personality? Surely you have rights of your own."

When the unskissed write, "My mother has brought me up to think that all men are wicked, and so when Bill tried to kiss me last night I told him I wasn't that kind of girl," I talked to such a girl quite scientifically: "I fear you are inhibited." In other words you have a "set" against kissing. Instead of being so uppish about it, you ought to feel sorry for yourself.

Of course her mother is primarily to blame for putting such ideas into her head, and my only prayer is that inhibitions against men established by her mother will not permanently injure the girl's emotional life.

Real salesmanship in kissing means knowing what a kiss is worth to the girl who gives it, when to give it at a time it is worth the most, where to give it in good taste, to whom to give it when it will be appreciated.

Real wisdom in this respect involves knowing when, what, whom and why to kiss, and when, what, where, whom and why not to kiss.

POOR IN READING "Dear Sir: I have a problem on my hands and would like you to help me out like you help others.

"My son 8 years old has a very hard time with his reading. I and his father spend whole evenings teaching him and still he doesn't know. And because he has a hard time in learning to read they put him back a grade and don't bother with him. I would like to know whether there is anything you could tell us to do so it would help the child. We feel sorry for him because all the children of his age are ahead of him and it makes him feel worse.

"Please answer me soon for we are worried.

"Mother"

ANSWER: I'd let helping him at home go as far as reading school books is concerned. I'd let him read anything in which he is interested and then tell you about it, and you and dad can read to him anything that interests him whether it is a circus, animals, dogs, etc. What the boy needs is to succeed in any kind of reading. I am enclosing my free leaflet, "What May Cause Your Child To Fail In School."

Needy Families to Get Larger Food Allowance

An increase of $1.98 per month in food allowances of families with children on county indigent rolls has been ordered by County Manager Wayne Allen following reports of County Charities Superintendent Rex Thomson that the county's standards were below that set by the Heller Foundation.

The increase will cost Los Angeles county $51,118 during the balance of the fiscal year. Sufficient funds have been saved from other operations of the department to justify the increase, Allen states. Dec. 1 has been set as the effective date for the increase.

Although an increase of $1.49 per month had been recommended for families without minor children it cannot be made because of lack of funds until after the next fiscal year, Allen reports.

Christian Science Thanks Service Here Thursday

Thanksgiving Day services will be conducted Thursday, Nov. 23, at 11 a. m., in the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Torrance.

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon is "Thanksgiving" and the Golden Text is from I Thessalonians: "Rejoice evermore. Pray without ceasing. In every thing give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you."

Among the Bible citations in the Lesson-Sermon are these verses from the Psalms: "O give thanks unto the LORD; call upon his name: make known his deeds among the people." "Serve the LORD with gladness: come before his presence with singing. Know ye that the Lord he is God: it is he that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture. Enter into his gates with thanksgiving, and into his courts with praise: be thankful unto him, and bless his name. For the LORD is good; his mercy is everlasting; and his truth endureth to all generations."

The Lesson-Sermon presents also these words from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Gratitude is much more than a verbal expression of thanks. Action expresses more gratitude than speech. What we most need is the prayer of fervent desire for growth in grace, expressed in patience, meekness, love, and good deeds."

During the service an opportunity will be afforded Christian Scientists in the congregation to give testimonies appropriate to the occasion.
