OLD CLOTHES... Today is the last day for the "Old Clothes Week." The clothes are to be given to war refugees who are in desperate need. Think how it would be if we needed clothing, but had no way of getting any except from thoughtful people. Look around and bring your old clothing to the high school tomorrow morning bright and early. This is the last chance—let's do our part in helping those in need. Only warm clothing is wanted. No light clothing should be given.

NEW CLUB... A new club that is going places this year is the "Bachelorettes," a club of girls. The organization is party service and party social. Officers are President Doris Martin; Vice-President Ernestine Mauk; Secretary and Treasurer Wanda Maddock, and Reporter Joan Blackhall. The club is composed of 19 members and is sponsored by Miss Margaret Woods.

YOUTH... Tuesday night the newly formed Allied Youth organization at T.H.S. had a very successful party at the Torrance ball park. The club has decided to get a charter and membership pins. Big things are planned because of the very able sponsor, Louis Sauter, they'll soon be a very able organization. The officers are: President Bill Johnson, Vice-President Jim Daniels, Secretary Lillian Prince, Treasurer Ruby Benner, Sergeant-at-Arms Bill Wise and Fred Hicks, and Reporter Bob Lewellen.

SCHOLARS... It used to be the Scholarship Society was the highest club students could reach. There were many students in this organization. Now it has dwindled down to a very superior group. These few are: Shirley Guttenfelder, Raymond Leake, Joan Ramskill, Agnes Sorenschky, Richard Pierson, Helen Thompson, Ted Fleming, Ullian Keck, Irene Findley, Betty Polis, Bernice Javens, Marcia Rous, Jackie Cooke, Mildred Ikezo and Martha Nakakoka. This small number of students indicates scholastic standing is lowering at T.H.S.

RALLY... Since a great deal of enthusiasm is being shown in the football season, the B11 class has decided to join in and increase the pep. Next Thursday, Nov. 7, a rally will be held, sponsored by the B11 class, at the Grand theatre. All students and townfolk are invited to attend. Tickets at 28 cents will be sold at school.

TREAT OR TRICKS Last night some little ruffians came knocking at my door. "It's treat or tricks," they said to me. And muddled up my floor. Said I: "This is coercion. It's bribery and threat!" Said they: "Why Mrs. Soanso, You ain't seen nothin' yet. Your little fence is just a cinch. The best one on the street." And so, like all the rest of you, I meekly paid the treat. I had to hide a smile, at that. Because in my young day, Our victim didn't have a choice— He paid the hardest way! —B. B.

'POSSUM DISTURBS DETECTIVE DALLAS, Tex.—Awakened by a "burglar," Detective R. W. Smith reached for his revolver and crept to his porch. Smith raised his weapon but didn't fire, for the "burglar" turned out to be a prowling 'possum.

National Guard Anti-Aircraft 'Defends' Seattle

Defense preparations for Seattle took a noisy turn on a Sunday morning when units of 265th Coast Artillery, Washington National Guard, boomed down at low-flying "enemy" straffing planes. Citizens rubbed sleep from their eyes, rushed downtown to see what firing was about.

Rotarians to Hear Kentucky Colonel Tonight COLONEL JACK MAJOR... From Paducah, Ky., suh... The Union Oil Company will present Colonel Jack Major, public relations representative, before the Torrance Rotary club tonight. He will be introduced by Harvel Guttenfelder, local Union Oil dealer. Colonel Jack Major hails from Paducah, Kentucky, and is the protégé of Irvin S. Cobb, having been caddy for that worthy on the Paducah Golf Course. It was through Cobb's assistance that the Colonel began his writing and after-dinner speaking. The Colonel's after-dinner talks are so crammed full of Kentucky hillbilly lore, race horses and stories about his home town of Paducah, Kentucky, that the Governor, in recognition of his work, made him a "Colonel." He has entertained the President in Washington and other dignitaries many times. Colonel Major writes for the Christian Herald, making use of his early training—but still including enough of the Cobblan type of humor to give the readers a chuckle. His story, "I Was Once An Organ Pumper," really rolls them in the aisle. His story about "Old Doc Brown" in poem form, co-authored with Henry B. Murtagh, has been reprinted for many publications. So many requests for this poem follow an engagement that the Union Oil Company gives them away as souvenirs. For Entertainment Only The Colonel has recently returned from a speaking tour for the British in the South Seas, Australia, New Zealand and the Fiji Islands. He is an entertainer, vocalist, and a whistler. His phonograph records were best sellers, and he is well known to theatre audiences throughout the country, and his name became a household word as a result of his Coast-to-Coast radio program, "The Colonel from Kentucky." The Colonel Jack Major is definitely an entertainer. He does not lecture on the Oil industry—he does not advertise in his talk—he is not a super-salesman—he is not out to get "new business." The Union Oil Company has engaged this international humorist and writer only for the purpose of saving "Thank you" for the business they have enjoyed during the past 50 years.

With Mrs. Julia Cucci, state Democratic central committee woman, in charge, a Democratic campaign headquarters was opened at 1405 Craven avenue late last week.
