

Former Lomitan Murder Victim In Eastern City

Charles Carter has just received word of the death of Sie Harrison Kuchera who lived in Lomita in 1938. While here he was employed by the Welch Lumber Company and was a member of Calvary church. Mr. Kuchera, who was a boatsman's mate, second class, disappeared in September in Boston. A few days later his body was found in the woods about 20 miles from that city and it was evident that he had been murdered. The case is still being investigated. Kuchera was 27 years old and leaves a wife, Ruth, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kuchera and three brothers, all of Rushville, Nebraska where the body was buried with military honors. While living in Lomita Kuchera lived with the Carters. He was a cousin of Mr. Carter. Washington ranks first, and New York second, among the states in apple production.

Owners Must Clear Lots of Weeds By May 15 or Pay for It

Wm. H. Fair, Jr., of the Weed Abatement Section for Los Angeles county, has issued notice that all lots in the county whose overgrowth of weeds constitute a fire hazard to adjacent improved property will be posted in April and owners must have them cleared by May 15. If this is not done, County Weed Abatement crews will do the work and the charge will be placed on tax bills. Property owners who desire to do the work themselves should notify the office at 701 East Jefferson bldg., giving lot and tract number or other legal description of the property.

Gunite Being Used on Quake Repair Jobs Here

Use of Gunite construction on at least 10 and possibly more earthquake reconstruction jobs here will give Torrance a municipal "face-lift" that should result in a most attractive business district. This type of construction, also known as pneumatically compressed concrete, permits unusually strong structural construction and the latest architectural design.

George Z. Harman of Harman and Company announced this week that his firm recently completed the Gunite reconstruction at the Torrance Auto Parts building and will shortly begin work on the following structures here: Automatic Printing, Plaza Hotel, Daniels Cafe building, upper front of the Bank of America, First National Bank building, Erwin hotel, Foursquare Gospel church building, Masonic Temple building and the Torrance theatre.

The use of pneumatic compressed concrete (Gunite is the trade-name for an expired patent on the process) came to the fore following the 1927 and 1940 Imperial Valley earthquakes and the 1923 Tokyo and Santa Barbara tremors. The cost of Gunite form work is about one-quarter that of forms for reinforced concrete. Harman states: "However, the cost of the cement used is twice as much as for reinforced concrete because we use ten sacks of cement per yard of Gunite, which we believe a good investment because the added money spent for cement is left in the structure, whereas the cost of forms is lost," he said.
