First Ladies to be Portrayed Here by Noted Actress

MARY WATERSTREET

Mary Waterstreet, noted American solo actress, will present her famous production, "First Ladies of the Land," Friday evening, Feb. 13, at 8 o'clock at the Torrance Woman's Clubhouse under the auspices of the Betsy Ross Club, it was announced today by Mrs. Naomi Brown, president.

"First Ladies of the Land" is an intensely dramatic indictment of aggressor nations and a scathing indictment of war lords now stalking the earth. The production shows the gradual influence of women in national affairs and thru the emotions and psychology of those impersonated one feels the pulse of our national life. Six wartime president's wives—Martha Washington, Dolly Madison, Sarah Childress Polk, Mary Todd Lincoln, Edith Bolling Wilson and Eleanor Roosevelt are admirably impersonated.

Mary Waterstreet wears gowns that are exact reproductions of those worn by the presidents' wives which are now on exhibition in the Smithsonian institution. Hair arrangements for each character are designed to represent coiffures of the period. Appropriate musical augmentation for the presentation will be provided.
