

Where British Hint Thrust May Start

This map shows area where French were warned by British radio to evacuate and move inland because of coming military operations. Many observers interpreted this warning as a hint of big Allied invasion.

TECHNOCRATS TO SHOW WAR FILM HERE

"Blitzkrieg," a documentary sound film depicting actual combat operations of the Allied Nations in their fight against Fascism, will be presented by the Torrance Unit of Technocracy Inc., at the Torrance high school assembly hall, next Tuesday evening, June 23, at 8 o'clock. Shown in this outstanding film are actual scenes of fighting on the battle fronts of the world and on the high seas, including action at Pearl Harbor, Bataan Peninsula, Singapore, China and battlefields of Europe.

This picture offers residents of Torrance and vicinity a rare opportunity to see and realize America's efforts in her fight against the Fascist aggressors of the world. Following the showing of the film, Arch Malin, authorized speaker for Technocracy Inc., will speak briefly concerning incidents depicted therein.

All residents of Torrance and vicinity are invited to attend the showing of this picture. Admission is free.

The Boy With The Hoe

The teen age is a tragic age for a boy when his country is at war. In his dreams he joins in high adventure—sweeps the skies in a bomber, presses the trigger of a Garand, turns the tide of battle for America. Then he must wake to the world of cold reality, where he is only a kid, too young to fight.

But now a real call to war service has gone out to the hundreds of thousands of California boys—boys of all ages. The call is from the farms, where worried farmers face an emergency in food production because of the shortage of labor. Lack of help in the sugar beet fields already has caused loss of enough sugar to supply two weeks' rations for 21,000,000 persons! Crop losses are reported from the cotton and peach orchard areas. Losses will grow, and the variety of crops affected increase rapidly, as the summer advances—unless the appeal for help of the farmers of California and the entire nation is met by volunteers.

That call is echoed in the cities, where chambers of commerce and service clubs are organizing for vacations in the fields, and the AVWS is enlisting women for the lighter farm tasks. The call is echoed from far-away England—so heavily dependent upon America for supplies of food—through the British War Relief, which has launched a war-time harvest recruiting service in California.

The call should bring quick response from eager kids too young to fight. It is a call for sacrifice of all that normal vacation time holds for a boy—lazy afternoons at the beach, baseball, fishing expeditions. It is a call to back-breaking work under the hot summer sun. But it is a call to service as real as the service of MacArthur's men. The farm tractor is a weapon in this war no less potent for final victory than the battle tank. The soldier with the rifle fights on one front—and the boy with the hoe on another.

Local Militia Unit Forming

Plans for forming a state militia unit of Torrance, Lomita and Walteria men are proceeding with W. E. Gainsley of the Gainsley Poultry Farms on Newton St. in Walteria as temporary recruiting sergeant.

A minimum of 55 recruits are needed before application can be made to be incorporated into the state organization and be allowed to carry arms. The object of the organization is for the defense of homes in case of invasion by sea or air and members will drill with their own arms.

The unit will be organized into squads of 12 men each with a sergeant chosen by each squad. Two squads make a platoon and three platoons (72 men) a company. The platoons will each have a lieutenant chosen by the members and the company a captain also chosen by the men.

Men interested are asked to communicate with Gainsley at

Guardsmen Need Serving Dishes and Coffee Pots

State Guardsmen on active duty and stationed at the city park have plenty to eat but very few serving dishes. Mrs. Cora Bohrer, Torrance city recreation worker, has supplied them with all she can spare but they need more—and some large sized coffee pots.

If any resident has some extra dishes and he-man's style coffee brewers the State Guard will be glad to receive them. Mrs. Bohrer said today she will be happy to turn over to the Guardsmen all such gifts left with her at the City Recreation Center on Arlington ave. across from the city park.

Torrance 99-J. Other temporary officers of the local unit are Bruce R. Clements, 1615 216th st., sergeant; Ernest E. Elliott, 1449 216th st., corporal. The unit will meet Sunday to decide drill times.

VACATION—AND WAR

A cynic could make much of it: Millions of American college and high school boys have spent years studying the ways of peace and justice and constructive service—and now, as school ends and vacation comes, the government announces a war registration of all boys of 18 and 19.

The stuff of irony, is it? But the kids don't think so, and that is what counts. For the last year, in fact, vast numbers of them have eagerly volunteered for studies to prepare them for possible war service—aviation, motor engineering, military science. The boys see nothing ironic in preparing for peaceful pursuits, then turning suddenly to war. Circumstances changed; the boys haven't changed. They take life as it comes—unafraid, confident.

Boys, perhaps, are wiser than cynics.

Fifty-six per cent of the nation's land area is in farms, according to the 1940 census. Crops were harvested from 321,242,430 acres, and an additional 208,888,613 acres were in plowable pasture, idle or fallow cropland, or land reporting crop failure for the year.

Sock Savers

Garters might come back again, as sock savers, if this demonstration by Movie Player Susan Peters is any indication. Idea comes from England, where British girls substituted these grownup spats as substitutes for hosiery no longer available.
