

We're Mighty Proud, Uncle Sam...

THIS is a red letter day for us, for Torrance, and for the great state of California.

Your "E" Award to all of us here at The National Supply Company, for excellence of production in armament materials, is indeed an unusual honor. And it brings home to us Californians more than ever the responsibilities we have in helping win the war.

California is one of America's great war-preparation centers. All about us we see our armed forces getting ready for world-wide combat zones, and being equipped with war materials produced by Californians.

Uncle Sam, our hearts and our hands are backing these boys with an unceasing resolution to do better and better every day. We're mighty proud of our award today, but you're going to be even more proud when you see the big, new volume-production records we're going to set up in the next few months!
