Close Collaboration Between State, Federal Military Forces Is Pledged

On his first official visit to Southern California since taking office as adjutant general of the state of California, Brig. Gen. Victor R. Hansen met with Maj. Gen. Cortlandt Parker, commanding the Southern California sector of the Western Defense Command, and officers of the California State Guard in this district, at luncheon in the Pacific Coast Club Friday.

Gen. Hansen and Gen. Parker conferred for some time regarding the collaboration between the state military forces and those of the Western Defense Command, and the new adjutant general was introduced to officers of the various battalions of the State Guard from all parts of Southern California by Col. John C. French, commander of the Ninth Tactical Command of the guard, embracing Los Angeles, Orange and Ventura counties, and Lt. Col. Thomas A. Gregory, executive officer of the Ninth Tactical Command.

Praises Guard Leadership Speaking to the group of some 33 assembled officers of the Army and the State Guard, Gen. Hansen paid high praise to the quality of leadership which he had found in the Guard officers, and the cooperation between the state and federal governments.

He also declared that it would be the policy of his office to expect complete cooperation between the California State Guard and the various civilian peace agencies.

Understanding Necessary "Every commander of a State Guard unit," Gen. Hansen said, "should know his chief of police or sheriff well, and there should be an understanding of the two agencies during emergency. It should be remembered that only until the local law enforcement agencies have exhausted their own resources to meet a situation can a city or county police agency call upon the State Guard, and then only for cooperation and assistance."

He stressed that the relationship should be friendly, and that in recruiting for the State Guard there should be no interference with the recruiting of the auxiliary police or other civilian defense agencies.

Gen. Parker stressed the value of the state troops to the Western Defense Command in event of enemy action in this area, and declared that he had found the troops well able to cope with situations when put to test by his headquarters.

Staff's Attitude Praised Col. French, in a short talk, praised the attitude of the staff of Gen. Parker, declaring that it was one of "what else can we do to help" rather than asking for cooperation.

Gen. Hansen held short conferences with the commanders of the various Southern California battalions commanders, including Maj. A. Milton Fish, commander of the Second Battalion, 39th Regiment, Long Beach; Maj. B. P. Fineman, First Battalion, 39th Regiment, Hollywood; Maj. E. R. Hicks, First Battalion, 29th Regiment, Los Angeles; Maj. J. S. Staats, Fourth Battalion, 29th Regiment, Pasadena; Maj. H. Adams, Third Battalion, 29th Regiment, Glendale; Maj. G. B. Findlay, First Battalion, 49th Regiment, Santa Ana; Maj. F. A. Bemis and Maj. R. O. McFall, 28th Regiment, San Bernardino and Riverside, respectively; Capt. O. B. DeHoog, Fourth Battalion, 39th Regiment, Los Angeles.

General's Staff Present Other officers of the staff of Gen. Hansen present included Col. D. B. Miller, executive officer; Maj. A. Eggen and Maj. Roland W. Torrance to Aid Industries; Home Areas to Expand

Chairman Tom McGuire, of the planning commission, declared that Torrance's central residential district already is being set by fumes from high octane refineries and from synthetic rubber. He said the city now has to decide whether it is going to have residences or manufacturing and indicated his preference of the industrial expansion as long as so much choice residential property is available. Speaking of the C.C.M.O. attitude on the rezoning of the Torrance blvd. property C. J. Doherty, vice president, Santa Fe Land Improvement Co., declared in a letter which was read that the railway is holding the land involved for industrial use and service by the railway company. He said:

"It is noted, however, on page 11 of the zoning plans that the frontage on Torrance blvd., between the points named carries an R-1 zoning regulation to a depth of 360 feet. With the exception of two small corner parcels at the intersection of Maple ave., which carry a C-1 regulation. It is our belief that this zoning stipulation should be removed to permit of use of the entire property down to the Torrance blvd. frontage for industrial use. Otherwise it is going to hamper our development and will likewise be detrimental to the progress of the community.

Will Cooperate "We are desirous of cooperating to the fullest extent with you and the International Derrick & Equipment Co., in view of what you have told us at our several meetings, also with our officials and those of the City of Torrance for the sale of the property desired by IDECO, but we feel that these zoning regulations relative to the M-2 zoning should be clarified, and the R-1 regulation should be removed on the aforementioned Torrance blvd. frontage, for the benefit of all concerned.

"With these obstacles removed we will be pleased to proceed as seems best to meet the request of the International Derrick & Equipment Company for the acquisition of the northerly portion of Block 1, bounded by Crenshaw blvd., Carson st., and Oak ave., (because of the arrangement of their present facility, being approximately 634 acres of land running from the south line of Carson st., to the approximate center line of Monterey st., projected.

"In making arrangements for the sale of this land it would be subject to a reservation of the oil and mineral rights underlying the surface, but without the right to go upon the property for drilling and extraction purposes."

VanDyke, in pressing the C.C.M.O. and IDECO case on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce's postwar planning committee, of which he is chairman, declared that "Little or no benefit could result through an in-assistance on the part of Torrance to retain the present restriction and regulations, owing to the possibility that the C.C.M. could have their property indefinitely then by defeating the planning and zoning as currently regulated. Also, if the C.C.M.O. sold the property in question to an immigrant industry, the restricted and regulated areas could be landscaped to preclude introduction of residential and/or commercial districts within the boundaries. It is to be understood that these are not the reactions of the parties. It is desired to stress the importance of the negotiations on hand to the progress of the community generally, in that the Dresser Industries (of which International Derrick & Equipment Co. is now a part), have indicated that they are obliged to expand their Torrance facilities immediately to meet war urgent contracts and to properly plan their postwar program. If they are unable to effect this expansion their only alternative will be to relocate in some other community. In view of the fact that IDECO is one of the permanent Torrance industries, we can ill afford to lose their industrial presence at this or any future time.

"Also, it is wished to point out that a large industry is interested in locating on the C.C.M.O., Torrance blvd., property, but will not consider the site under present conditions and circumstances."

Variance applications are being prepared for immediate presentation to the Planning Commission in all three of the problems, Lewis said.
