Youth Group Plans Church Party Sunday

Playing host to the Young Churchmen's League of St. Andrew's church, the Youth Fellowship of the Christian church is planning a party for the social hour following the Church of Youth on Sunday evening. Episcopalian young people will also be guests at the church service, which is under the direction of the Christian Youth Fellowship.

Members of both these youth groups have expressed a desire for closer friendship and cooperation, and beginning steps have been taken in that direction.

Starting with the first Sunday of the new year, the Church of Youth at the Christian church is completing its first month with satisfactory results. Scheduled for the future are a number of programs which promise to be highly interesting to youth of the community.

Range Prices Same As 1942

New gas and electric cooking stoves, which now are beginning to reach retail stores, have been placed under dollar-and-cent ceilings at 1942 levels, Walter C. Hogan, head of the Consumer Durables section of the Southern California district OPA, said today.

Both types of stoves will be available in two sizes—the standard range and the apartment size cooker.

The OPA dollar-and-cent prices vary widely, just as stove prices did before the war. However, a typical price for a standard electric range is $189, and for an apartment size electric stove, $157, a typical price for a gas stove is $75 for a small size and $95 for the standard range.

Manufacturers are required to post their cash price with its OPA ceiling price. The cash price includes the installation service charge and the federal tax. It represents the total cost of the stove to the consumer.

With each electric stove, a one year guarantee of satisfactory performance must be given. Such guarantees also were given with each electric stove sold before the war, OPA said. About 80 per cent of all gas and electric cooking stoves expected on the market this year have been given prices, OPA said. As soon as the remaining companies make their applications, they will be given dollar-and-cent ceilings.

The cabinet unanimously voted to keep Nancy Whyte as their pianist.

TOMORROW'S LAMPS

Now that the circular fluorescent tube is destined to lend itself to traditionally-styled floor and table lamps, three possible arrangements are predicted. Fluorescent paired off with a diffusing bowl and three-light incandescent bulb; fluorescent in combination with a reflector-type incandescent bulb; all fluorescent.
