

ST. VALENTINE'S day again challenges the natural flair of florists for persuasive craftsmanship, to aid and abet romance. Above (1)—Chapeau de luxe for a charming holiday hostess is this new two-in-one idea. The cover provides a beautiful corsage to be detached and worn with any gown. Inside the box is a huge "glamie," for a lovely table center. (2)—Let this year's Valentine "go to her head." Fragrant roman hyacinths attached to a convenient side comb do the trick. (3) here's a versatile hipline or wrist corsage of carnations and jonquil petals, with accent on youth.

Crowning of Queen to Highlight Box Supper

An old-fashioned box supper will be held at the Recreation hall of the WALTERIA Park Thursday night, Feb. 17 at 7:30 o'clock. As in years gone by, each woman and girl will fill a box with an attractive lunch for two persons and decorate the exterior with gaily colored paper or other attractive material. Each gentleman shares his lunch with the lady whose name appears inside the box. Designed to be of particular interest to the children and young people, there will be two divisions, one for adults and the other for boys and girls under 12 years of age. Admission will be free, coffee will be served and a musical program to follow the crowning ceremonies when the "Queen of the Box Supper" will be announced following a popularity contest now in full swing in WALTERIA. Funds derived from sale of the boxes will be used to purchase a motion picture projector for the recreation hall at the park. This will be a thrilling new venture for the young people of the community and the committee in charge has arranged the program to appeal to this particular group.

Keep Dull End of Eggs Up, Says Advisor

There is a right and wrong end up for keeping an egg in best condition is a fact which few city housewives—and even some farm housewives who pack eggs for sale, do not realize, says Mrs. Margaret Todd, home demonstration agent in Los Angeles county. The large end of the egg should be up, and packing eggs in this position has been emphasized by poultry specialists. In keeping eggs for any length of time always keep them in the home refrigerator in this position.

The large end of the egg normally contains the air cell which should be on top as the egg stands. If the large end is down, the weight of the egg presses on the cell, causing the air to rise and gradually loosen the membrane. At the same time the yolk, because it is lighter in weight than the white, rises from its normal position in the center of the egg to the top or small end. There it may adhere to the membrane so that it is difficult to remove the egg from its shell without breaking the yolk.
