Mrs. A. E. Palmer, Mrs. Robert Williams, and Miss Elaine Allsebrook told the Torrance YWCA Committee this week about their attendance at the National YWCA convention in San Francisco.

In line with the theme of the convention, "Unafraid," many important projects were undertaken. A new constitution and a new membership policy for the organization have been adopted as a result of convention action. Standards for local associations have been strengthened and a study of program in local associations instituted. It was voted to raise a scholarship fund in order to train YWCA professional workers.

Several international leaders of YWCA appeared as convention speakers. Among these was Miss Sarah Chakko, President of Isa bella Thoburn College in Lucknow, India, and a vice-president of the world's YWCA. One of the most popular speakers was a tiny Burmese woman educator and YWCA leader, Daw Kath.
