

Red Cross Blood Donors Set Record

Whole blood collected by the Los Angeles regional Red Cross blood service center during the month of April set a new peace-time record.

This was the announcement made this week by Mrs. B. K. Willis, volunteer chairman of blood donor recruitment, as she filed her report with chapter officials showing that a total of 2,838 pints of blood were dispatched to hospitals in this area for transfusion.

Three Veterans Administration hospitals—Birmingham V. A. hospital in Van Nuys, the San Fernando Veterans' hospital and the West Los Angeles V. A. Center and the U. S. Naval Hospital in Long Beach were included on the list along with 73 civilian hospitals, Mrs. Willis' report revealed.

"This total represents the largest single month ever recorded for the Los Angeles regional blood service center, yet is far short of the 5,000-pint goal being sought by the Red Cross to adequately fulfill all requests for blood," the recruitment leader stated.

The blood is supplied patients in hospitals by the Red Cross, without charge, for transfusion utilization. Red Cross officials pointed out.

The regional blood service center for the Los Angeles chapter is located at 925 South Western avenue. It is open Mondays through Thursdays from 12:30 to 7 p. m. and on Fridays from 3 to 9 p. m.

Simple Rules Govern Home Freezer Storage

Foods that are going to be stored in a home freezer for no more than two weeks do not have to be wrapped in moisture vapor-proof heat-sealed packages. According to the General Electric Consumers Institute, even highly perishable hamburger can be safely frozen and stored simply in a covered container, if it is to be eaten within a fortnight.

Pointing out that simplified packaging methods enable smart homemakers to use their home freezers almost as freely as they use their refrigerators—living out of them daily—the Consumers Institute nevertheless emphasizes that, if there is even a faint possibility that food may be kept longer than two weeks, it should be wrapped for long-time storage in containers and materials specially prepared for the job.

Following are some of the packaging short-cuts developed by the Consumers Institute for short-time storage:

Thrifty homemakers can buy a week's supply of bread at a time, keep out whatever they need immediately and put the remaining loaves in the freezer in their original waxed paper or ordinary cellophane wrapper. If the bread isn't wrapped at all when purchased, ordinary waxed paper will be suitable for storage of two weeks or less.

Rolls, coffee cakes and nearly any other baked goods can be frozen right in the cardboard box in which they were sold.

Hamburger should be shaped into patties, or a loaf, and placed in a covered container. Refrigerator dishes with glass or oiled-silk covers are satisfactory for this short-time storage. This same procedure applies to chops or hamburger patties, place a double thickness of cellophane or aluminum foil between each piece to prevent them from freezing together. (The Consumers Institute does not recommend using ordinary waxed paper to wrap moist foods, such as fresh meat, because many grades absorb water and stick to the meat.)

Left-over cooked meat and fowl may be kept for two weeks in a covered container, or wrapped in waxed paper.

Ground meat for household pets is generally purchased in a quantity sufficient to last a week or two. This can be divided into one-meal portions and frozen in a covered container. The homemaker will also find it convenient to do this with commercially frozen dog and cat food—allow it to thaw and then divide it up and refreeze.

For short-time storage of any foods that can be wrapped, the homemaker can re-use aluminum foil. For instance, if foil has been used as a wrapping for a turkey which has been stored for several months and was torn when removing it, it can be cut into small pieces and used again for short-time storage of smaller items.

Glass jars are excellent for left-over stews, soups, etc., and can be used long after time. They are also good, of course, for long-time storage.

Mrs. Barlow Is Honoree At Luncheon

A board meeting of Torrance High School PTA was held Wednesday morning at the home of Mrs. A. C. Turner. An enjoyable pot luck luncheon followed the business meeting.

Mrs. Verne Barlow, the retiring president, was presented with a lovely gift.

Those present were Miss Harriet Hardy and Mmes. A. C. Turner, J. T. Oursler, D. A. Murphy, J. O. Kastens, John Spiller, Elmer Moon, Erwin King, W. E. Bowen, and Messrs. John Steinbaugh, C. E. Wallace and Earl Eckert.

Salvage Dark, Odd Hosiery By Re-Dyeing

Return of lighter hosiery tones this spring needn't mean discarding of your dark stockings. You can easily change dark shades to the latest light tones with special stocking dyes and color remover.

The dyes, which work on nylon and other lighter shades—violet beige, coral tan, smoke haze, wine blush, brown butter and hula bronze. These can be varied still further by simply varying the amount of dye used. Since the dyes require no boiling, they're safe for tintexing the sheers of hosiery.

Use color remover first to take out enough of the dark color to enable you to re-dye. The remover, which is in a bright red package, requires no boiling either.

Odd stockings, too, can be salvaged by this method of re-dyeing.

Business Women Plan Year's First Meeting

First business meeting of National Business and Professional Women's Club of Torrance in the new fiscal year will be called to order at 7:30 p. m. June 6 by President Harriet Spencer in the patio of Mrs. Emma Roberts' home, 1609 Anapola avenue. All members are urged to be present. Announcement will be made of the committee chairmen and the names of "Whostits" will be drawn. Hostesses will be Mrs. Roberts and Geraldine Wickham.

Delegates and members who attended the recent state convention in Coronado report information and interesting sessions at which much work was accomplished. Mrs. Leicester Fulwider of the Los Angeles District was elected state president. Others honored from this district were Hester Stewart as state recording secretary, Ivy Grace as state membership chairman and Audrey Brown as state director-at-large. From this club the following persons attended the Coronado meeting: Misses Harriet Spencer and Verna Porter and Messames Billie Dunning, Zada Ramsey, and Helen Williams. All members planning to attend the district meeting to be held June 11 should make reservations with Harriet Spencer.

ORCHID CULTURE OF INTEREST TO COLLEGE GROUP

Robert Cooper took seven students from his botany class at Palos Verdes College to study the orchids at the Ozzella Nursery in Hawthorne, Wednesday afternoon. The students were shown the great variety of plants grown from seed at the nursery, and the difficult process of getting the seed started was explained to them. Although the orchid plants were well past their peak of bloom, the visitors saw a wide variety of types and colors of flowers.

The students also were given a chance to see the cut blooms being packed for shipment.
