

WILL FISCHER RETIRES FROM EDISON COMPANY

The retirement of Will H. Fischer, utility executive, pioneer newspaper editor and prominent public affairs and legislative life of California, was announced recently by the Southern California Edison Company. His retirement as vice president, after 25 years with the company, becomes effective Dec. 31.

Fischer has been a member of the Edison organization since 1922. Since that year he has represented the company in legislative matters and has held important executive positions in the company. He has been a vice president since 1931. He is well-known also for his association with Masonic organizations. He is a member of all the Masonic bodies and was grand master of masons in the jurisdiction of California in 1927 and 1928.

A California native son, Fischer was born on a farm in Yolo county in 1875. He was educated in the public schools and attended the University of California at Berkeley. From a beginning as a carrier boy during his school days, he embarked upon a newspaper career as a reporter on newspapers in Woodland and San Luis Obispo. Moving to San Francisco, he continued his reportorial work on the San Francisco Report, the Evening Post and the Bulletin, successively. He served as city editor of the Spokane Press, San Francisco Daily News and the Los Angeles Record, and then moved to the Humboldt Times at Eureka as managing editor. In 1912 and 1913 Fischer edited the California Outlook in Los Angeles and then became an editorial writer for the Los Angeles Express and the Tribune.

Turning from newspaper work in 1915, Fischer entered the business of publicity and campaign management. An authority on state tax matters, he was director of the Taxpayers Association of California from 1917 to 1921. During his tenure of office he was one of the leaders in opposition to the King Tax Bill of 1921. During this period, too, he made an extended study of state governments and presented a complete reorganization plan to the legislature. It failed of adoption, but many of the features were enacted into law at a later date.

In 1921 he helped sponsor in the legislature a constitutional amendment providing for the establishment of a formal detailed budget. When the legislature failed to adopt it, the Commonwealth Club of San Francisco submitted it as an initiative measure, and it was approved by a vote of the people. This measure is still in effect.

When Fischer joined the Southern California Edison Company in 1922 his first major assignment was organization

Fish, Game Licenses Up?

Further hits that Californians may be paying higher hunting and fishing license fees in the future come from State Director of Finance James S. Dean.

Although the Fish and Game division has been self-supporting in the past, Dean warned the $9,000,000 to be made available from State horse racing revenues for capital expenditures in wildlife conservation will prove a maintenance burden. The 1947 Legislature created the Wildlife Conservation Board to control expenditure of $3,000,000 annually during the next three years for construction projects only.

tion of the opposition to the State Water and Power Act, a measure for socializing California's water and power resources which was three times defeated by vote of the people, in 1922, 1924 and 1926.

Since his first work with the state legislature in 1901, Fischer has appeared before legislative committees and represented important groups of citizens in legislative problems at every session until the present. Now, with his wife, the former Jeannette Parrott, of Fruitvale, California, to whom he was married on Jan. 1, 1898, he plans to retire to his Southern California ranch, to rest from a busy career and to devote his time to his private interests.

Rights Of Kin Under Vet's Death Explained

J. G. Caldwell, director of the Torrance Area Veterans Service Center explained today that widows and children of deceased World War II veterans may in some cases be entitled to federal pension even though the veteran's death was not due to war service.

To qualify dependents for a World War II pension, the veteran must at the time of death have had a disability due to war service. However, the veteran need not have been drawing government compensation for the disability, since a "zero" percent disability rating frequently is sufficient to establish pension eligibility.

Caldwell added that the disability requirement does not apply to World War I dependents, and the widow and children of any deceased veteran who served during the 1917-18 period may qualify for a pension, subject to income and other limitations.

These pensions may not be paid to any widow with a child or children whose annual income exceeds $2,500; to any widow without children whose income exceeds $1,000 or to any dependent child with more than $1,000 income.

Amounts of dependent pensions are: widow alone, $42; widow and one child, $54; each additional child, $6; no widow but one child, $21.60; two children, $32.40; three children, $43.20; each additional child, $4.80.

Caldwell urged the dependents of any deceased veteran to call at the Torrance Area Veterans Service Center located at 1339 Post avenue, Torrance, for a complete survey of federal and state benefits to which they may be entitled.

SAFEWAY

NEW POLICY

Adds to your Shopping Convenience ...Saves you money!
