She Has Beauty, Brains--And No Queen Contest Sponsor

The Junior Woman's Club have a Queen Candidate--and a beauty she is--who needs a sponsor.

If there is any one of the local organizations that would like to sponsor a candidate who stands about this high, and who fills the space in between with the pulchritude of a Powers Model, they are instructed to call Mrs. Laura Lewis of the Junior Woman's Club, 805 Acacia avenue--Torrance 454M.

The girl would make royal competition for Beverly Moore, sponsored by the Torrance Junior Chamber of Commerce and Barbara Zachery, Lions Club candidate.

Both candidates and sponsors are needed for the annual Y.M.C.A. Building Fund Drive which will start with a parade on April 22 and end with a Coronation Ball on May 26.

Torrance Sailor Greeted Admiral in London

George E. Osborn, chief yeoman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Osborn of 1745 Martina avenue joined other personnel on duty at Naval Headquarters, London, England, when they recently greeted Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, USN.

The Chief of Naval Operations was on tour of Naval forces in the Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean.

Mother Hits Car While Attending to Child.

While attempting to tend to her baby sitting next to her in the front seat, Mrs. Marjorie Mae Quinn, of Wilmington, lost control of her car and crashed into a parked car last Saturday in front of 1903 West 222nd street.

She and the child, Michael, 4 1/2 months, were treated at the Harbor General Hospital according to Torrance Police reports.

The parked auto belonged to David A. Beale of the 222nd street address.

Armed Bandits Rob Kettler Knolls Office

Two armed bandits held the night watchman of the Kettler Knolls, Inc., office at gun point March 30 and took $270 in cash and checks from the office cash box, he told police.

The watchman, A. F. Spaulding, 2534 1/2 Pennsylvania avenue, said the two men stepped from the shadows and apprehended him as he entered a warehouse of the company, about midnight. They then forced him into the company office at 1800 Sepulveda boulevard, where they forced him to produce the cash box from a filing cabinet. About $110 of the loot was cash.

ARMORY ACTION TAKEN

One more of the knots in the long streamer of red tape entwined about the plan for a National Guard Armory for Torrance was unsmothered by City Council action last Thursday.

Upon the request of National Guard officials, the Council corrected the description of certain properties to be used by the state as a site for the armory. The move enabled the city to give a grant deed to the National Guard for the site located adjacent to the Torrance City Park.

LT. COL. PAGETO HEAD ARMED FORCES PROGRAM

Announcement was made recently of the appointment of Lt. Col. M. E. Page Jr. as project officer for the observance of Armed Forces Day in Torrance on May 20. Brigadier General Leroy H. Watson, Commanding General of the Sixth Army, Southern Sub-Area with headquarters at Fort MacArthur is in charge of Armed Forces Day Activities in the greater Los Angeles Area.

Captain Lee W. Gibbons of the local National Guard Engineer Battalion has been appointed as assistant Project Officer.

Observance of the day here will be coordinated with Veterans Organizations and Civic Groups and the theme "Teamed for Defense" will be carried out during the program. Armed Forces Day this year will take the place of the single service days of previous years and will point up the activities of the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard. Local organizations which have been active in past years are asked to coordinate their activities this year with Lt. Col. Page or Captain Gibbons as the Armed Forces Representatives.

Preliminary plans for the observance have been initiated with representatives of the local Veterans Council and indications are that this will be one of the biggest Armed Forces events ever staged here. The occasion
