

Dr. R. A. Larson Opens New Offices on Sartori

Settling down in his new modern chiropractic center at 1110 Sartori avenue this week is Dr. Raymond Larson, who formerly was located at 1659 Gramercy avenue.

Dr. Larson's new ultra-modern building contains such features as shatter-proof glass on the exterior, and a ceiling-to-floor picture window which turns the reception room into a veritable garden.

Designed by Architect Roscoe L. Wood and built by W. R. Reyer, both of Torrance, the new

DR. R. A. LARSON Opens New Office

Building of offices has been laid out to permit the utmost in efficiency, comfort, and privacy for the patient, Dr. Larson says. The building is air conditioned, and contains thermostatic controlled heating throughout.

A recognized civic leader, Dr. Larson is a member of the Torrance Rotary Club, Torrance Educational Advisory Committee, and the Torrance Chamber of Commerce. He is also a member of the Torrance Masonic lodge, South Bay Elks Club, American Legion, National and California Chiropractic associations, and Sigma Chi Omega—national professional fraternity.

His wife, Eula assists him as receptionist and secretary, and Mrs. Veda Peer assists as a nurse-technician.

The new office will be open for public inspection Saturday and Sunday, Dr. Larson said.

New Minister Acquainting Himself With Local Parish

Settled in his home at the parish house and making the rounds to get acquainted this week is the new minister, Rev. Homer Miller, of the Central Evangelical United Brethren Church.

The successor to Rev. U. S. Schauer, now with a parish in Gardena came to Torrance from the Woodruff Church in Stockton where he served for two years. He served as a chaplain with the 57th and 58th Anti-Aircraft Battalions at Camp Callan during the war.

He joined the Veterans Administration staff after the war and served with that agency for five years in Long Beach. He brought his wife, Grace L., to Torrance to take up residence in the parish house at 1542 Marcelina avenue following his recent assignment here. They have no children.

The new minister is a graduate of Albright College in 1919 and has attended Harvard University and Ohio State since his graduation.

Rev. Miller delivered his first sermon from the pulpit of the local church two weeks ago following his assignment to Torrance after the annual confer-

Filling Station With No Gas Doing Big Business

It is seldom one finds a filling station without gasoline doing big business. But such is the case at 1927 W. Carson Street. This filling station has no gas, no oil, and no grease. What this filling station does have is high grade cotton, hair, muslin, webbing, and sundry materials with which it fills overstuffed furniture—thus producing top notch upholstered sofas and chairs for which it is famous.

This filling station better known as Torrance Upholstery, humbly offers this closing thought: "If your chair has a tear, or is threadbare, needs mohair, or its springs ensnare, then we declare, treat it fair, treat it square. Let us repair your chair with care. Then when folks will stare, they will swear, it's beyond compare anywhere. Our Phone please Torrance 1157.
