'HIGH' WIRES PERIL WOMAN AFTER CRASH

A Gardena woman who evidently has more lives than the proverbial cat probably is polishing up her good luck pieces today.

Mrs. Opal McCollum, 35, of 1846 W. 162nd St., crashed into a power pole on Western Ave. south of 236th St. early Saturday morning, smashing the pole into smithereens.

The crash caused the high voltage wires to fall, but defying the law of gravity they came down in an arc around her auto.

Had they fallen straight down, as would have been imagined, the woman probably would have been electrocuted, police officers said.

Meanwhile, a car driven by Joseph Bowling, of 1740 W. 257th St., Lomita, hit a section of the power pole which had been thrown onto the street by Mrs. McCollum's crash.

Bowling and a bystander assisted Mrs. McCollum from her car, stepping over crackling power lines.

Officers booked the woman on a drunk charge after she flunked a proximeter exam. She was treated for cuts and bruises.
