Niece Drops In For Visit While Touring Coast

The niece of Elmer Scovill, 1468 W. 18th St., dropped in for a visit Thursday and decided to stay overnight.

Scovill's niece, Lavone Royer, 17, had just returned from a visit to the San Diego zoo and harbor, Knott's Berry Farm, Catalina and Tijuana.

She's a senior at Norwood High School in Norwood, Colo., and it was the first time that she ever had visited these colorful spots out here on the Pacific Coast.

Unusual—not at all. But with Lavone, came 14 other seniors from the Norwood School, a teacher and a bus driver. The pre-graduates extended their annual Ditch Day into a Ditch Week, boarded a bus and came west.

They look off for home Friday afternoon.

Barber Shoppers Get Together

The walls of the Bettie Thomas Studios, 1215 Crenshaw Blvd., rocked to a fare-thee-well Thursday night at the Torrance and Inglewood chapters of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America got together to blend harmonies.

Two conductors waved their arms for hours in front of the combined choruses, and quartet after quartet stepped up and made with the music, according to Bill Bartholomew, president of the Torrance chapter.

Three Torrance quartets—The Other Four, Colonels of Corn, and Deacons—along with the 24 Feet of Harmony from Inglewood, entertained the group between chorus sessions.

Refreshments were presided over by Guy Heigt, Herb Allen and A. F. Palmer.

"Visitations of this kind are productive of the finest kind of fellowship," Bartholomew said.
