

FALL FASHION FORECAST BY 'DAUGHTERS'

About 150 people got a preview of what the high school girl will wear this fall at the Third Annual Job's Daughters' Fashion Show, held Wednesday at the Masonic Temple on Sartori Ave.

"We were very pleased at the wonderful turn-out," said Miss Anne Bishop, senior princess, who presented the style show as her installation project. All proceeds will be used for the November program when she is installed queen of the Bethel.

Parade of fashion began at 1:30 p.m., following a 12:15 p.m. luncheon. Members of Job's Daughters carried out the theme of the show, modeling favorites of the high school girl for classes and parties.

As added features, mothers of the girls showed women's fashions, and five-year-old Sandy Crabtree modeled clothes for the smaller set.

Newest and most outstanding style shown: Miss Bishop said, was an electric blue "tempor-resistant" coat. Lining of the coat, she said, is treated to keep you cool if the weather is warm, and warm if the weather is cold.

Smart suede coat with fur trim modeled by Mrs. Don Wolf also was an eye-catcher.

Sleeveless sweaters and coat dresses were shown as musts for the school girl's wardrobe. Those necessary "date frocks" were predominately taffeta or faille, with crinoline underlinings giving body to the full skirts.

Most popular color of the fall costumes shown was brown in all its varying tints and shades.
