'Kiss Me Kate' Called Blending Of World's Best Comedy, Music

Blending one of Shakespeare's funniest comedies—"Taming of the Shrew"—with a modern-day backstage plot and sprinkling liberally with 15 of Cole Porter's best tunes made the musical comedy "Kiss Me Kate" the toast of two continents, and now, at last, the show has come to the South Bay.

The Broadway hit is presently in full rehearsal at Redondo Union High School by the South Bay Civic Light Opera Association, which draws much of its talent from Torrance.

First dress rehearsal of the show was held last Monday night. And the musical will open tomorrow night, Jan. 29, at 8:30 p.m. Performances will follow on Jan. 30, and Feb. 5, 6 and 7, the last performance to be a Sunday matinee.

Musical Director Melville Tully said yesterday that there is still a good selection of seats available, but that they are going fast. Priced at $1.50 for orchestra, $1.50 for side sections and center balcony, and $1 for side balcony—50 cents for children—the tickets can be reserved by phoning Frontier 2-8070, Tully said.

Orine Backus of Hollywood Riviera has been cast in the title role of the tempestuous Kate and brings to the show a wealth of experience gained in leading roles in eight past South Bay productions. Opposite her, in the role of Broadway actor Fred Graham—Petruccio in the Shakespeare scenes—is Jim Boyd of Gardena, a show biz veteran who comes to the South Bay from a successful engagement at the Sacramento Music Circus, a professional theatre-in-the-round group that stages summer musicals in the capital city.

Other local residents with leading parts are Bud Wright, as Hortensio; Lee Hughes, as Gremio; Paul Bennett, Baptista; and on the staff are Nadine Nickol, stage manager, and Jean George, costumes. Gail Link, of Torrance, has a featured singing spot in the show.

Drama director is Bob Ben-Ali, of Paramount Studios, who directed an extremely successful production of "Taming of the Shrew" last season at the Pasadena Playhouse.

The most recent Broadway musical to be staged by the group, "Kiss Me Kate," is also the liveliest, Tully said, with each Cole Porter hit as "witty as a whip."

"Always True to My Fashion," "Blanca," "Darn Hot," "Brush Up on Shakespeare," and "So In Love with Me," are some of the songs that Bill Jackson, formerly of MGM Studios, has designed the eye-filling modern and classical sets, and Ann Douglas is handling choreography.

Tension Mounts As Finals Near

Tension mounted to a screaming pitch in Torrance this week as gradually, slowly, steadily—the role of the temperamental Kate in the Recreation Department yo-yo-contest ground on toward the finish, strewing beaten, broken yo-yoers in its wake.

In the fight for the city yo-yo championship, four more winners were chosen in eliminations held Saturday at McMaster Park. Ronnie Tremaine took first by cracking a first place tie with Pete Kemp, who took second; Bill Claxton yo-yoed to third place and Sharon Sisco outlasted Susan Hayes to take top spot in the girls' division.

These weekly winners will vie in the city championships and the city champ will go to the district slugfest in Gardena. Another elimination contest will be held Saturday at McMaster Park at 10 a.m. and at Torrance Park at 1 p.m.
