

King Defends Voting Record

 Congressional Record, Friday, Aug. 20, 1954:
 "In the first session of this Congress, my voting record of support of the legislative recommendations of the President was 82 per cent, which was high on the list in both the Senate and the House, regardless of party. During the second session of this Congress, I am unable as yet to say what my percentage rating will be, or how the rating will be determined, as it is well known there have been many controversial votes on amendments that will complicate the record, to say the least."
 "I have seen many so-called box scores indicating the extent to which the President's program has been approved or disapproved. There are some who appear to believe that the worth of this Congress can be determined solely by such a box score. It seems to me, however, that the function of Congress is to legislate for the best interests of the people. Success or failure in this field can be measured by one yardstick, and one yardstick only,—what has the Congress done to promote the security, welfare, freedom, and prosperity of the American people."
 "I believe that the American people do not care whether a program has been 50 per cent

60 per cent, or even 82 per cent approved,—they want to know whether the program has sufficient merit to be approved at all, in any form and to any extent.
 "My record shows that my percentage of support of the President's program was superior to a large portion of members of the President's own party in both houses of the Congress.
 "I supported President Eisenhower's program whenever I felt it was in the best interest of the people during both sessions of the 83rd Congress. In the next session of Congress I will continue this policy."
