The "people of Union Carbide" include the men and women who operate the Torrance plant of Carbide and Carbon Chemicals Company.

Plastics from the salt of the earth

WITH THE PAINSTAKING care of expert chefs, scientists combine ingredients from salt and natural gas—cook them in huge pressure cookers called autoclaves—and turn out amazing vinyl plastics.

First to use the recipe over 25 years ago, the people of Union Carbide prepare millions of pounds of vinyl plastics each year. They can be blended into materials that ignore scuffing . . . stay young and flexible for years . . . thrive in sunlight or salt water . . . and shrug off liquids known for staining.

As flexible film, vinyls become decorative shower curtains, draperies, protective garment bags, or inflatable toys. Vinyls can be squeezed through a hole—like toothpaste from a tube—to make insulation for wire and cable. Other forms produce wear-resistant flooring, durable upholstery, washable playing cards, unbreakable phonograph records. The list of useful products grows bigger all the time.

With an eye to the future, the people of Union Carbide are still pioneering in this fascinating field. The years to come will see more and better plastics serving in every American home.
