

Phone Firm Names Gage To New Job

The newly created position of public relations supervisor at the General Telephone Co. of California in Santa Monica has been filled by George Gage, 137 Via Sego, formerly field engineer for the utility, according to Alfred J. Barran, public relations director.

Gage, with a decade of telephone experience behind him, will supervise the publicity, advertising, and special events sections of the public relations department.

His first position with the utility was that of a storeman in Santa Barbara. Gage subsequently held positions as engineering fieldman, engineer A in research and planning, and field engineer.

Born in Oregon, Gage attended Marymount Military Academy in Tacoma, Wash., and Vancouver High School in Vancouver, Wash. He later matriculated at the University of California at Santa Barbara.

During World War II, Gage served in the South Pacific with the U. S. Navy from 1942 to 1946. He was attached to a Naval Air Transport Service.

Married to the former Dencie Bartlett, Gage is the father of two girls, Janet, 7, and Joan, 4.

Jewish Welfare Fund Leaders To Join in Nationwide Telecast

United Jewish Welfare Fund campaign leaders in the South Bay, Centinela Valley, and the southern communities' areas will join in an epoch-making nationwide closed circuit telecast linking 25 major U.S. cities Monday evening, April 29.

From throughout the greater Los Angeles area, some 500 welfare fund leaders will meet at the Westside Jewish Community Center to be briefed on the grave refugee and Middle East situations from four of the leaders of world Jewry.

They will be among the American Jewish community leaders in 25 cities who will hear and see Abba Eban, Israel's ambassador to the U.S. Herbert Friedman, United Jewish Appeal executive vice president; Lord Mayor Robert Briscoe, of Dublin, Ireland, and Brig. Gen. Chaim Laskov, commander of the southern Israeli forces and one of the heroes in the whirlwind Sinai Peninsula military triumph last October.

The "people of Union Carbide" include the men and women who operate the Torrance plant of Carbide and Carbon Chemicals Company.

For today's smaller-than-ever radios and hearing aids
a powerhouse...peanut-size

REMARKABLE, button-like transistors have made possible tiny radios and hearing aids. They do the same job done by tubes . . . but occupy only a fraction of the space and consume much less power.

Along with this development came a whole family of revolutionary new batteries from Union Carbide. Some—small as a peanut—drastically reduce the size of portable electronic devices.

The miniature batteries used with transistors have led to almost invisible hearing aids and personal radios that fit easily into pocket or purse. And equipment for telephone, telegraph, and other fields of communication is now being designed on a compact, space-saving scale.

For more than 60 years, the development and production of EVEREADY dry cell batteries has been an important job of the people of Union Carbide. They will continue to seek new ways to make these portable packages of power even more useful to all of us.
