

BIG BOAT . . . One of the main attractions at the recent North High School Science Day was a giant aircraft carrier model, supplied by the United States Navy. Students enjoyed watching the operation of the carrier which featured airplanes with propellers that really worked and parts that moved.

NEW CHURCH TO RISE . . . Groundbreaking ceremonies for a $255,000 addition for St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Avenue D and Pacific Coast Hwy., were held last Sunday. Shown are Louise Reinhardt, chairman of the board of trustees; Lyle Cook, chairman of the finance committee; Rev. Paul C. Cox, pastor; Gene Eichler, church treasurer, and Dean Madsen, chairman of the architectural committee.

Four Marine Reserves on Annual Air Station Duty

A quartet of Torrance Marine Reserves will be among more than 300 Marine Air Reserve officers and enlisted men from throughout Southern California and Arizona will take part in the annual military inspection at the U. S. Naval Air Station, Los Alamitos, on May 12 and May 19. The local men are Maj. Henry Fink Jr., 3916 Newton St., a jet pilot; M/Sgt. Jack W. Berry, 2012 Kathy Way, and T/Sgt. Conrad J. Hepps, 22311 La Deane Ave., both engineering specialists, and Pvt. James D. Roberts, 21206 S. Vermont Ave., a basic trainee. The inspection of Marine Reserve personnel and training will be conducted by Rear Adm. Henry H. Caldwell, Commander - Naval - Air Reserve Training, and Brig. Gen. Frank C. Croft, Commander Marine Air Reserve Training, who will arrive at Los Alamitos from their headquarters at Glenview, Ill.

In Fighter Squadron
All of the local Reserves are assigned to Marine Fighter Squadron 241, which is commanded by Lt. Col. Donald L. Clark, combat veteran of World War II and the Korean War, who has been associated with Marine Reserve aviation for more than 15 years. VMF 241 is one of the three squadrons coming under the jurisdiction of the Marine Air Reserve Training Detachment at Los Alamitos, which is commanded by Col. Robert A. Harvey, USMC. ### Two Awards Banquets Set For Camino Campus Center

Climaxing a year of scholastic and co-curricular activities, El Camino College will stage two awards banquets in its Campus Center May 24 and June 6.

"Growth of the college has necessitated two award presentations this year," Merl F. Sloan, director of student personnel, announced today, indicating that athletic awards will be made at the initial banquet this month.

In charge of the athletic banquet will be Bill Bragg, student commissioner of athletics. Highlighting this dinner will be the presentation of the "Athlete of the Year" award, given annually to the Warrior who has contributed most to the athletic program of the college.

Other athletic awards will be made to outstanding intramural sports participants and to lettermen in all spring sports. Awards for outstanding individual performance will be made in each sport.

Scholarships, departmental awards, and other distinctions in the fields of scholastic endeavor and student government will gain recognition at the 6:30 p.m. banquet on June 6. Jim Lawrence, commissioner of activities, will head the second event to honor El Camino students.

The public is invited to attend both dinners, tickets being available in the student store of the Campus Center.
