Luau to Mark Polynesian's Reopening

As a triumphal salute to our 50th state and to ceremoniously mark the partial re-opening of The Polynesian in Torrance, a spectacular luau will be held at the coast highway restaurant, Sunday, May 3. The festival, "Aloha To Hawaii," will be open to the public.
Luau festivities will begin on the outdoor lanai at 2 p.m., while the partially completed restaurant will open at 5 p.m. for regular dining service. Advance reservations will be required.

PHEASANTS

The statewide general pheasant season will be from November 14th-29th (one-day calendar rollback for last year's dates to provide for a Saturday opener).
Authentically duplicating the colorful feasts of the Islands, the luau will be enlivened by native pageantry and musical entertainment. Hawaiian foods will be featured. Date for the grand re-opening of the Polynesian Restaurant is expected to be sometime in July, according to Pete Reitz, owner and general manager, who instituted reconstruction plans immediately following the devastating fire.

Hollywood detectives surprised Prappas and Wagoner asleep at the Movietown Motel in Hollywood, Hamilton said. Stuart was not with them.

ing together events which led to the accident on Sepulveda Blvd. west of Crenshaw, said it was apparent that Mullins had been driving his car at a high rate of speed prior to the crash. He and his younger passengers had been to the beach, police were told.
Reports that Mullin had been drinking beer prior to the accident were being checked by police.
