IMPORTED CAR NEWS DIGEST

from SMALL CARS MAGAZINE

The Aronde (Swallow) line of cars are four-cylinder models available in nine different passenger types, ranging from the $1695.00 P.O.E. Deluxe four-door sedan to the stylish and sleek Oceane Convertible at $2890.00 P.O.E. The range of commercial vehicles runs all the way from half-ton pickups to 35-ton heavy-duty vehicles, but it is only the lighter vehicles that are currently being marketed here. Simca also has the lowest-priced V8-engine car available—the Vedette. Currently there are over 300 Simca dealers in the United States.

The nicely proportioned four-passenger four-door sedans have a 96" wheelbase, a 162" over-all length, and weigh about 2,000 lbs.

Particularly noteworthy is the Aronde's handling characteristics and the smooth-running 48-52 hp engine which has excellent low-speed torque or high-gear lugging ability. The steering-column gear-shift lever controls a four-speed transmission that has excellent gear ratios.

The ride is a bit firmer than on domestic cars and this, combined with faster steering (three-and-one-quarter turns lock to lock), results in cornering and roadholding characteristics that are of the sports-car type. The car remains stable on rough roads and is by no means tiring to drive. Driving the car can be somewhat of a revelation if full use is made of the gearbox.

Latest addition in 1958 is a new Montlhery model. It utilizes the standard four-door body shell but is more luxuriously trimmed and features reclining front seats. Most important, however, is the use of a higher compression 57-61 hp engine. This boost from the usual 48-52 hp engine gives greatly increased performance. The price of this new model is $1,899 P.O.E.
