Rules Slaying 'Justifiable'

Justifiable homicide was the ruling of a coroner's jury Friday who heard testimony concerning the slaying of a 19-year-old youth in Torrance March 16.

The shot which killed Jerald Dean Terry of Gardena was fired by Redondo Beach Officer William McCrory Jr. "in lawful performance of his duties" the jury said.

Both Redondo and Torrance officers were present when the youth was shot trying to escape.

Several witnesses testified Friday at the inquest that Terry raced through a church crosswalk, narrowly missing several pedestrians, and then attempted to force pursuing police cars off the road.

Officer McCrory said he fired four shots at the fleeing youth who was trapped when his car crashed on Pacific Coast Hwy. near Robert Rd.

"As God is my witness, I did not mean for the boy to die that way," the officer dramatically told members of Terry's family as he left the stand.

McCrory testified he fired at the boy's legs. Dep. Coronor Frederick D. Newbarr said the bullet, which entered Terry's head, was flattened in such a way that it could have ricocheted.
