

YOUR PROBLEMS

by Ann Landers

All Men Are Not Rats!

Dear Ann: I married too young (17) and didn't know what it was all about. My husband and I fought like cats and dogs. Instead of trying to get to the bottom of the trouble and work things out, I divorced him.

Two years later I married a real devil. My first husband was a gem compared to this one. I couldn't figure out what was happening to my clothes. They kept disappearing. One day I found out he was selling them. When he broke my little boy's arm in a fit of temper I threw him out of the house and divorced him.

Now my sons are 9 and 11 years of age. My first husband has always supported them and he never has missed a Sunday or a holiday to take them out. When he heard about me breaking up with my husband he asked me to remarry him. The kids are all for it. My mother says all men are rats. What do you say? —MRS. UNDECIDED.

Dear your first husband for several months and get reacquainted. If you get along well together, remarriage could be a good thing.

P.S. Your mother is wrong. All men are NOT rats. Your second husband was a skunk.

Dear Ann: The girl I love is now shopping for a wedding veil in which to marry another guy. I'm sure she doesn't have enough nerve to break the engagement.

I went with this gal for two years and then we had a fight and broke up. I started to go with another girl and this one ups and gets herself engaged to some pill she knew in high school.

I've seen her three times this week (drove her to work, took her to lunch and drove her home) and she says she's not nutty over this fellow, but he is kind and considerate and they will have a good life together. I have a hunch her folks are pushing it because he is very substantial. Get it? What shall I do? —BROKEN HEARTED BILL

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Paddock Now Living in Long Beach

South Bay Church of God was the setting on June 28 at 2 o'clock for the nuptial service uniting Miss Tommie June Tiger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Foster, 18219 Palomella Ave. and Fred Paddock, son to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Paddock, Long Beach.

The Rev. T. Tierney officiated at the vow exchange.

Mr. Foster walked with the bride to the altar. She wore a gown of white satin fashioned with a lace and satin jacket. The graceful skirt fell into a train. A flat headpiece of net and satin secured the fingertip veil and the bridal bouquet was made of white orchids and carnations.

Miss Barbara Tiger was her sister's maid of honor. She wore orchid taffeta and carried orchid carnations. Bridesmaids were Misses Pat Campbell and Virginia Gahavia. Their gowns were also of orchid taffeta and each carried a matching bouquet. Little Linda Paddock in orchid taffeta and carrying a basket of flowers was the flower girl. Jim Paddock stood as best man and ushers were Truman Fielder and Bob Fasione.

A reception was held at the church. Miss Pat French was in charge of the guest book.

The bride was graduated last month from North High school. Her husband attended North High and is now serving with the United States Navy stationed in Long Beach.

The newweds are at home at 4041 Banner Dr., Long Beach.

To Canada

Gaye Wilson Repeats Vows

MRS. THOMAS MATHEW
... Lovely Bride

Miss Gaye Wilson who served as Miss Torrance 1956-57 was a beautiful bride as she walked down the aisle of the Neighborhood Church in Palos Verdes on Sunday afternoon, June 29, at 2 o'clock to exchange her wedding vows with Thomas R. Mathew, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Hardy of Redondo Beach.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Wilson, 3960 Pacific Coast Highway, walked to the altar on the arm of her father. Her Alfred Angelo original gown was of Chantilly lace over tulle. It was detailed with a V neckline and short cap sleeves of the Chantilly. The bouffant skirt was outlined with the wide Chantilly lace. The French imported il... Chantilly and fell from a regal pearl crown. Traditional lilies-of-the-valley and stephanotis formed the bridal bouquet.

Miss Donna Grady, wearing a billowy gown of blue dotted swiss and carrying pink carnations was the maid of honor.

The bevy of bridesmaids was composed of Misses Louise Mathew, Jeri MacAdam and Sue de Meyers. Their dresses were of pink dotted swiss and each carried a shower bouquet of white carnations.

Little Lori Jean Kasten was the flower girl and the rings were carried by Kelly Corben. Duties of best man were performed by Dale Herberson and ushers were Steven Wilson, Ken Hudson and Vic Ray.

The marriage ceremony was conducted by the Rev. T. A. Lewis of Wallington, Surrey, England.
