

An Invitation -- Have Fun at the Y in July

Your PROBLEMS

by Ann Landers

"A Clinker in Your Thinker"

Dear Ann: I'm a respectable married woman with three children. I was carefully reared and am trying to instill in my daughters the same traditions of morality. My problem is my husband. He has turned terribly cold toward me.

In the first few years of our marriage I put up with his romantic moods. But after a while I got to feeling it was foolishness, a waste of time and energy and I remembered how my mother used to say all men were greedy when it came to this sort of thing. I began to think of my husband on these terms, and told him so.

For the past year and a half he hasn't come near me except to give me a peck on the cheek. He's very handsome and I sometimes worry about other women, but he's home every night so I know he's faithful. I'm miserable, yet my New England upbringing will not allow me to throw myself at a man. What shall I do?

—EMOTIONAL WRECK

Don't blame New England. There are plenty of New Englanders who are well adjusted and living life to the full. It was your mother who threw the clinker in your thinker.

The clue to your problem lies in your first sentence—the word "respectable." The conflict between "respectability" and fulfillment is what hatches marital troubles. There's nothing unrespectable about married love. It is part of God's plan. Your early training has made you look upon sex as evil. It's made you feel guilty and unworthy.

Your husband probably got tired of battling for affection and gave up. My advice is to see a doctor. Learn to loosen up and thaw out. You'd better throw yourself at that handsome man (New England background and all) before someone else does.

Dear Ann: I have a boy friend who would rather play the horses than eat, and sometimes this is the choice he has.

The other day he phoned me at work to say he had a hot tip and needed $50. I said no dice. Two hours later he called again to say his mother was sick and he needed $50 to get his spare tire out of hock so he could drive over to see her.

I let her have the $50 and now I'm mad at myself. My girl friend says that he made up that yarn about his sick mother. I've let him have money before and he always pays me back, but he's plenty slow about it. What does this sound like to you, Ann?—LILLIAN Sounds like the horse was sick. But what good is a post mortem at this late date? He dropped the loot if mean he went to see his mother) and that's that.

If your boy friend repays what he borrows, you're luckier than most girls who go with victims of hangout fever.

MRS. EARL F. HOLMSTEDT JR. . . . On Wedding Day (Charles Helton Photo)

Rachael Hogan Now Mrs. Holmstedt, Jr.

At the first chords of the wedding march from Lohengrin, the 200 relatives and friends stood to await the entrance of the bride, Miss Rachael Hogan, whose marriage to Earl F. Holmstedt, Jr. was a lovely event of Saturday morning, June 28, at Nativity Catholic Church.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Cecilia Hogan, 2313 Carson St., approached the altar on the arm of her cousin, James Wuchner. Her wedding gown was of white lace in a floral design. The fitted bodice, which formed a V at the waist, had a bateau neckline of lace scallops. The long sleeves also formed a V at the hands. The bouffant skirt was two layers of tulle over satin appliqued with flowers. A scalloped tulle held the blazoned veil. Her bouquet was a heart-shaped frame of net holding white orchids and stephanotis anemones.

Miss Corrella Brunker was the maid of honor. She wore a mint green crystalline gown and carried a heart-shaped bouquet of yellow net and roses.

Miss Helen Couch was the bridesmaid. Her gown was also of mint green and her bouquet of yellow roses.

Just ahead of the bride, was little Sandra Lee Hulet, in a yellow nylon frock serving as flower girl. Carrying the rings was Thomas Holmstedt.

John Holmstedt served his brother as best man and ushers were George Holmstedt, Robert Murphy, and Dennis Brunker.

The Rev. Joseph McArdle, pastor, officiated at the marriage and mass and Miss Catherine Wuchner was soloist.

A reception was held at the YWCA where the bride's colors, yellow and mint green, were carried out in decorating. The newlyweds spent a honeymoon at Yosemite and Kern River. They are now at home at 2104 Cabrillo Ave.

The bride was graduated from Torrance High School where she was a member of the GAA, Spanish Club, Y-Teens and Inter-Club council. Her husband, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Holmstedt, Sr., 1407 Beech Ave., was graduated from Serra High. He was active in football, track and basketball.

Engaged—Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Bowen, 1225 Madrid are today announcing the engagement of their daughter, Gloria, to John Haskell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Haskell of Gardena.

An early fall wedding is being planned. The future bride was graduated in June from Marymount High school in Palos Verdes. The benedict-elect was graduated from Serra High school (Gardens) in 1957 and is employed by the Thorpe Insulating Co.

Penelope Cannon Weds Canadian

MRS. REGINALD PITTS . . . Weds in East

In the First Baptist Church in Tempe, Mich. on July 5 at 2 o'clock, Miss Penelope Cannon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Warren Cannon, 4131 177th St. Torrance, became the bride of Reginald George Pitts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Pitts, Toronto, Ontario, Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Cannon and family went east to attend the wedding.

The Rev. T. Nyberg, pastor of the Dicker-ville, Mich. church conducted the marriage.

The bride approached the altar on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. She wore a ballroom length gown of white embroidered tulle over satin. Her blazoned brooch and veil was edged in lace and secured by a pearl tulle. White rosebuds and carnations formed the bridal bouquet.

Miss Dorothy Davis was the maid of honor. Junior bridesmaids were Misses Patricia Landon and Mary Cannon. Sally Cannon was the flower girl. Chris Bowman carried the rings.

Alex Berbour was best man and Jerry Cannon and Ronald Pitts were the ushers. A reception followed the wedding.

The bride was graduated from North High school in 1937. She has been employed in Toledo, Ohio. Her husband is employed by the government. Their new address will be 114 Richmond, Toronto, Ontario, Canada.

Members Plan Social Activities

Alpha Omega chapter of Theta Chi Epsilon sorority planned its year's social calendar at the meeting held July 2 at the home of Mrs. Pierre Drobay in Manhattan Beach. A letter of thanks for their donation from the Spastic Children's Foundation was read.

Social committee chairman, Mrs. Ed Kuryniec announced the schedule of social events for the next six months. They include the annual mother-daughter luncheon to be held July 27, at the La Venta Inn. A family picnic, a hobo barbecue, rush activities and Halloween and Christmas parties will follow through the year.

A white elephant sale will be held Aug. 1, as a ways and means project. The letter received from the Spastic Children's Foundation was the gratifying result of months of hard work that went into the chapter's recent fashion show, the proceeds of which were donated to the Foundation which does such wonderful work.

A last minute discussion before the convention indicated there will be almost 100% attendance of the chapter at the national convention in Long Beach this month. The meeting was closed by president, Mrs. Bob Spradling and refreshments were served.

Cliffords Take Part in Parade

Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Clifford, 2823 Eldorado Ave., members of the Horseless Carriage Club of Newport Beach, joined other club members in participating in the July 4th celebration at Huntington Beach. The Cliffords rode in a 1920 Pierce Arrow.

After the parade the club members were invited to the home of Judge Raymond Thomson at Emerald Bay Laguna for a barbecue and swimming party followed by fireworks.
