NEW MANAGER . . . Hans M. Schiff, former Motorola works manager, has been named operations manager for Ryan Aero's Torrance plant.

Operations Manager for Ryan Aero Plant Named

Hans M. Schiff, 37, former works manager of manufacturing of Motorola, Inc., Chicago, has been appointed to the newly created post of operations manager of the Ryan Aeronautical Co. plant in Torrance, G. W. Rutherford, manager of the electronics division, announced today.

Formerly a separate division of the company, the Torrance operation recently was consolidated with and became a part of the Ryan electronics division.

The Torrance plant, now manufacturing America's outstanding remote-controlled jet target drone, the Firebee, will soon be utilized additionally for quantity production of Ryan electronics systems.

At Motorola, Schiff had jurisdiction over four plants, three in Chicago and one in Arcade, N.Y., employing approximately 3000 persons producing military electronics equipment, automobile radio tuners, automatic gearshift transmission controls, and printed circuit chassis.

A graduate of the University of Rochester, N.Y., where he majored in mechanical engineering and business administration, Schiff served in the Army as a first lieutenant in World War II. He was production manager of United Parts Manufacturing Co., an automobile replacement parts manufacturer in Chicago for four years before joining Motorola in 1950.

He is married and has three sons and a daughter ranging in age from 12 to 2.
