Riviera Summer School Students Form Pan-American Congress

How much does the average person know about yellow fever, Bolivian tin, Argentine beef, or the status of Latin-American revolutions?

Students in Mrs. Irma Wilson's and Robert Heald's seventh grade summer classes at day at 2 p.m. Rev. Morgan Gates officiated. Interment followed at Pacific Crest Cemetery.

Born in Nebraska, Mr. Box resided in this area for the past 24 years. He was a member of the Redondo Lodge of Eagles.

Surviving relatives include his wife, Mabel; a son, Clifford; a daughter, Sandra; his mother, Mrs. Zela Box, of 1544 W. 206th St.; and four sisters, Verna Hill of Nebraska, Hazel Kellok of this city; Catherine McGee of Nebraska, and Geneva Manskaer of Palo Alto.

After solving the problems of the Americas, students break up into groups to consider subjects which are closer to home—reading, writing arithmetic, science, music, art, and others. Instruction in all of these courses has a Pan-American theme, however.

This novel approach is being closely studied by school officials.
