Twins Can Mean Double Joy and Sorrow, Too

Twins mean double joy for most parents, but sometimes the job is mixed with a bit of sorrow. It's hard for a mother to look at two-year-old twin girls when they are the youngest of eight wonderful children and know there really isn't enough room, enough food, enough clothing, no money.

Sorrow has lived with the mother for a long time — sorrow that their father couldn't face and left before they were born. Sorrow because the older children had to be left for a time when the twins came to the one-parent home. Soon the welfare lady came, to help, neighbors joined in, generous hearts and hands brought aid. But, the caring for these eight youngsters is a job that will last for many years and parents of the South Bay area who have been privileged to open their hearts for the double joy of their own twin children are determined that the job will be done.

STRANGE RACE
One of the strangest races ever seen on a racetrack took place at Epsom, England in 1828 when a gelding named The Arrow raced against a pig for 180 yards. Heavy wagering took place and the winner was — the pig!

want to know her real name — will one day see the twins are double blessings, without the sorrow. And the 15-year-old sister, oldest of the eight, who has been caring for the young family while her mother has been sick, will know a few moments of carefree youth once again.

FIRST PROJECT of the South Bay Mothers of Twins Club to help the family will be a dinner meeting when members will bring canned goods and clothing for everybody from Mrs. Smith's size 12 down to the two-year-olds. The dinner will be held at 7:30 p.m. August 17 at the Entre Nous, Pacific Coast Highway and Robert Rd., in conjunction with the regular monthly business session.

The club is also in earnest search for more adequate housing for the Smith family and for that they need help from anyone who can supply it. And the job goes on. They are appealing for second hand furniture, such as chests of drawers, beds (especially bunk beds), and a used vacuum cleaner. Anyone who would like to assist can secure the information as to the sizes for the six girls and two boys by calling Mrs. Jack Deiters, DA 6-6602. Husbands of club members have volunteered to call for any furniture that is offered.
