... Ann Landers

he was never home she wasn't about to sit around and twiddle her thumbs. So she started to go out, too. If something isn't done I'm afraid there's going to be a divorce.

I'll be 18 soon and I'm old enough to take care of myself. But my younger sister is only 12 and I'm worried about her. Can you help me? — AWAKE NIGHTS

Dear Awake: Somewhere along the line your parents stopped communicating with each other. Instead of working out their problems they made excuses. Mother began to run around because Father was running. Father started to run because Mother nagged him. Mother nagged him because he made bad investments.

Ask them to visit a clergyman together. They owe it to you and your sister to make an honest attempt to save their marriage. Good luck.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How to Be Well Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope. WHAT'S DOING

As any mother knows, it's usually hard to keep kids away from the phone. They love to use it. And it's important they learn how to use it properly when they're young. That's why we put together "Adventures in Telesonia." It's a teaching kit, complete with puppet movie, shown above, that shows grade school students how best to use the telephone. We worked it out at the request of teachers and with their assistance. It teaches the right way to make calls, including those from public phones. And this training helps everybody get better telephone service. "Adventures in Telesonia" is available to schools just for the asking.

September's back-to-school time in a lot of families. Time to remember that a long distance call is a fine way to keep in touch with the kids away from home. Why not plan now to set aside a certain night each week for a telephone visit with your favorite student. And station-to-station rates are lower after 6 p.m. weekdays and all day Sunday, you know—even lower than you might think. Pacific Telephone
