Ann Landers

Now things are beginning to fall into place. When he comes in off the road he's so tired he falls into bed without a decent hello. I used to think traveling knocked him out. Now I think it's the night life.

What shall I do about this girl? Am I magnifying things?
—33
Dear 33: Your imagination is indeed working overtime. If this enclлада had a romantic interest in your husband she would not be writing to his home asking to meet his family. And if there had been anything between them, you would not have seen the letter.

Men who travel work hard. Some may have an assortment of dolls tucked away in key cities, but most traveling men are too busy trying to make a living.

Tell your husband you'd be pleased to have the girl for coffee. Skip the accusations. You could create a problem where none exists.

Dear Ann: The letter from the 16-year-old girl who couldn't talk to her mother hit home. I couldn't talk to my mother either—but for a different reason.

Mother was the clearing house for all the neighborhood gossip. No information was safe. I could die when I think of the intimate things she told members of her bridge club, my aunts, the neighbors and even some of my teachers.

To make matters worse, Mother was a great guesser. She'd get a few facts and add to them like mad. I had to lock up my diary, hide my personal letters and make phone calls from the drug store.

So, please, Ann, tell these mothers who feel hurt that maybe their daughters won't talk to them because they've learned that Mother can't keep anything to herself.—BE-TRAYED

Dear Ann: Last night my husband and I had dinner at his mother's. After dinner she went into the living room and said she was too tired to do dishes. This was O.K. with me. I felt she was entitled to rest after having cooked for us all.

What burned me up is her fat daughter plopped down in the living room and talked to the men, while I did the dishes myself. This isn't the first time I've been stuck.

My husband says his sister has a hot temper and it isn't worth a fight. He advised me to say nothing for Mom's sake and be a good sport. I think I should speak up next time, but I don't know what to say.—DISHPAN HANDS

Dear Dishpan: I see no reason for you to let your sister-in-law take advantage of you. Simply say: "That was a delicious meal, Mother. Hortense and I will do the dishes and you can relax." Or—if the lazy lout has escaped to the living room—say (good naturedly): "Grab a towel while they're hot. Those who eat must work."

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, read ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting—And How Far to Go," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to: Mrs. Ann Landers, P.O. Box 100, New York 17, N.Y.)

Evelyn Carr

"Frontiers Unlimited Through Reading" was the theme of the first association meeting of the Evelyn Carr PTA Tuesday, Sept. 22, at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria. The flag salute was led by Johnny Miller of Boy Scout Troop 761 and Mrs. Geneva Shelton gave the inspirational.

Mrs. Perry Baker, president, introduced the members of her board and Mr. Richard Welte, principal, introduced the teaching staff. Mr. Welte and Mr. John McGee, vice-principal, gave a symposium on teaching methods used in the reading program from kindergarten through the 8th grade.

The PTA Board acted as hostesses and served cake and coffee.

First Ways and Means project for the Flavian PTA will be a paper and rag drive to be held on Oct. 6 from 7:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the faculty parking lot. This project is under the direction of Mrs. Chester Black, ways and means chairman.

A prize will be awarded to the room bringing the most paper.
