Two craft classes for teenagers and adults are slated to begin next week at the Arts and Crafts Center, according to the Torrance Recreation Dept. The teen-age class will learn to make party decorations and the adult class will make Christmas gifts.

The adult group will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, starting Oct. 21. The teen gathering is planned for four Fridays at 4 p.m., starting Oct. 23.

Cost of the teenage course is $1.50 including all materials. The adult fee is $2 (includes $1 worth of materials).

Erika Muhl is in charge of the workshops at the center, located at Sea-Aire Park, 22730 Lupine Dr. Plans are being made by the department for its Annual Christmas Workshop. Participants in the December gathering will make Yule decorations.

Assessment Procedures Present Major Problem to Legislators

By VINCENT THOMAS
Assemblyman, 68th District
A plague to both our legislative houses is the continuing and perplexing problem of what to do about assessment of real property for purposes of local taxation. No sooner do we laboriously hammer out a solution to one factor in the overall situation than another annoying trouble pops up to test our legislative wits and judgment. And woe to us if we fail to pound out an acceptable answer to some pesky puzzle. We know it will hang around to pester us for years. The difficulty of dealing with such matters is that almost invariably they are double-edged. On the one hand is the need of the local taxing agency for revenue to be measured by the values found by the assessment. On the other hand is the very obvious danger implied in that venerable American legal finding, "the power to tax is the power to destroy." As our elected lawmakers, we must proceed cautiously in developing assessment statutes.

MOST OF US never pause to think of the wide range of matters which must be taken into account in dealing with the controls that govern assessment practice. Decisions as to what agency, state or local, will assess what kind of property are involved. So are equalizations at the local level, at the state level, and between the state and localities to afford fair treatment to all taxpayers. Ticklish areas with respect to exemptions for veterans, of non-profit religious, charitable and educational institutions, of vessels, of personal property, of certain crops, vines or trees, constantly become apparent and demand attention.

Another matter of increasing concern is the extent to which certain types of properties should be given some protection in assessment procedures.

As an example, there is the possibility that owners may be forced by assessment and taxes out of line with other factors into surrendering certain kinds of property to uses which endanger desirable lines of activity. The rapid swallowing of some of California's finest agricultural land by subdivisions is a case in point. There are those who argue that farm lands should be given some special consideration in assessments, if our state's preeminent rank in agriculture is to be maintained.

ANOTHER EXAMPLE involves the valuation and taxation of stored crops as of a fixed date each year. This could create serious disadvantages for our California products in competition with those of other areas. A few years ago we Legislators acted to end this problem for our great cotton crop.

At our last session we were called on to study still another situation of this type. This time, it involved one of our state's favorite and highly publicized recreational outlets — the golf course. Even those of us who do not play the game appreciate the value of this recreational resource. But it seems as though the higher prices our golf links would bring if subdivided for homes is raising their assessments (and taxes) and so is gradually driving our private courses out of existence, thereby endangering the future of the game in California.

WE FOUND OUT that it would require a constitutional amendment to remedy the situation. As originally introduced, it was found to be too broad for acceptance by our two houses. It was twice amended, and in its last form, applies only to real property of nonprofit golf courses in existence two years or more consisting of one parcel of 10 acres or more. In this form it received the approval of more than two-thirds of the members of our two houses. It will appear on your ballot in November, 1960.
