YOUR PROBLEMS

by Ann Landers

"Dreams Can Give a Clue . . ."

Dear Ann Landers: A friend of mine who is very good at palmistry and reading tea leaves says dreams have a special meaning. She offered to interpret my dreams for a fee. She can't do it for nothing because she belongs to an association and it is against the rules.

My common sense tells me that it's all a lot of humbug. What is your opinion?—BEAUTIFUL DREAMER.

Dear . . . Beautiful . . . Palmistry and tea leaf reading are humbug. Dreams, however, can give us a clue to our real feelings. But interpretation of dreams requires professional training and unless your friend is a psychiatrist, she is not qualified.

Dear Ann Landers: I was deeply touched by the letter from "Bitter 16" who wrote in behalf of all wallflowers.

All young boys are not selfish and thoughtless. Ann. In June, I had an experience that renewed my faith in the younger generation.

I was a parent on duty at an all-night graduating party. My job was running the photo concession, taking "instant pictures" of the kids on their last dates as high-school students. Our big problem was the repeaters — those who wanted to come back again and again.

Along toward morning I noticed one young fellow kept returning for a picture, but he always had a different girl. He was a Big Wheel, honor student, athlete and perennial office-holder. The fifth time he showed up I gave him the usual spiel. "I think you've had your picture taken with nearly every girl here. This is where we call a halt."

Afterward he slipped around to see me alone. "If you don't mind," he said, "I'd like to bring a few more girls around for a picture. Some girls here don't have dates and I'd like to see that they get a souvenir picture, at least."

This young man had been paying for the pictures out of his own pocket. After that, his

Brilliant Charity Benefit

Gala Horse Opera Ball Saturday Eve

Highlighting the fall social season will be the Horse Opera Ball to be staged Saturday evening at The Courtyard at the Portuguese Bend Riding club in conjunction with the two day horse show sponsored by the Peninsula Committee of the Children's Hospital. Serving as chairmen for this brilliant ball are Mrs. James Ingebretsen and Mrs. Seymour Yardley Warner, Jr. A colorful magnificence will greet guests as they enter the scene of festivities through gilded arches to be announced, for fun, by liveried butlers. Swags of gold cloth, hangings of velvet and plush in pinks and garnets will be blended with gilded oats and horseshoes to create the setting for the evening. Refreshments will be served from the golden horseshoe bar.

Framed on rococo gold will be a gallery of famous horses which will share the spotlight. There will be "portraits" of "The Dark Horse," "The Horse of Another Color," "The High Horse," "The Old War Horse" and "Lady Godiva's Horse."

Guests have been invited to join in the spirit of the evening in dress. The ball gowns of the turn of the century with tiaras, aigrettes and plumes will be worn by committee members whose escorts will don frock coats and brocaded vests of Edward VII.

Max Morath, famous night club entertainer, will perform in the Diamond Horseshoe. An opera supper will be served at 11 p.m. Ball guests will dance to the music of Charles Mac Niles.

On Saturday afternoon over KTLA the horse show will be televised. Introduced on the telecast will be Mrs. Gabriel Duque, vice president of Children's Hospital, and Harry Dunlap, administrator.

The telecast is being sponsored by George Chacksfield, well known developer in this area, whose most recent project is Montecillo Estates in Palos Verdes.

A cable car from old San Francisco, now motorized, has been donated by Western Airlines to transport guests up the tree lined lane from the parking area to "The Courtyard," located at 24 Pomegranite Rd., Portuguese Bend.

Proceeds from the Horse Show on Saturday and Sunday with approximately 300 entrants, and from the Horse Opera Ball will be donated to the Convalescent Home of Children's Hospital.

CDA Show Tonight

Two colors are new in the fashion trends this fall, and one may take its place along with black and beige as a "basic," according to Mrs. Ralph E. Moore who will commentate the annual fashion show to be staged by the Catholic Daughters of America this evening at the Nativity Parish hall on Cota Ave.

While there is a continuation of the transition colors (green, gold and beige tones), the new plum shade has slipped into an important place in the color spectrum. Mrs. Moore pointed out. Fashion magazines have predicted that the new green-gray will become as basic as beige or black. Color coordination is changed somewhat this year, and bright colored accessories, even to shoes, very fashionable.

Styles remain somewhat the same, Mrs. Moore stated, but the "dropped torso" which is worn with or without a belt, is new. There is more draping, or draped effect, than previously, lots of flowing chiffon and peau de soie with scarfs or stoles often attached to the gown. Brocade ensembles in cocktail dresses are good, as are matt jersey in prints, wool challis, and jersey still lead; the Italian knits (flat and close-woven) are very popular. The generous use of sequins in evening clothes, and the very high-crowned hats were other fashion items mentioned by the fashion authority.

Court St. Catherine's annual fashion show will begin at 8 o'clock this evening, with court members or their daughters as models: Mmes Richard Ban, James Carlin, William Hardesty, Ray Montenegro, Ethel Hetrick, Peter O'Brien and Gerald Young, and the Misses Carol Armstrong, Sandra Derouin and Susan Cimore.
