Gives Hints For Success

Torrance's School Board Superintendent J. H. Hull is the author of an article on relations between superintendents and their boards of education, in the current issue of the American School Board Journal.

In it, he discusses some of the principles he considers important in running a good school district.

"A superintendent will be successful as long as the people understand he is using his talents for them; and so will the board of education," the article says. "The board is a deliberative body, not a performing body."

"A superintendent must use his personality, his influence, and his status for the benefit of children and education. He must have backbone. He must

DOWN THEY GO . . .

Wray Wilson, who has spent the past two months getting the downtown parking meters into first class operating condition, began his rounds yesterday to remove them from the city streets. By ordinance of the city council, the meters were outlawed effective immediately Tuesday night.
