LINES AND CURVES . . . Beauty and function are the keynote words for a description of the city's newest high school, slated to open in September. West High School, located at Victor and Spencer Streets, combines straight lines and gentle curves to provide a

West High To Open in September

Torrance's fourth public high school will open in September with about 1,000 students expected to report for classes.

The new school, located at Victor and Spencer Streets, has been named West High School. It is intended to serve students now living in the extreme parts of the North and South High School attendance areas.

THREE BUILDINGS will be available for use in September. These include an industrial arts, a general classroom unit, and the library, which also houses temporary office facilities.

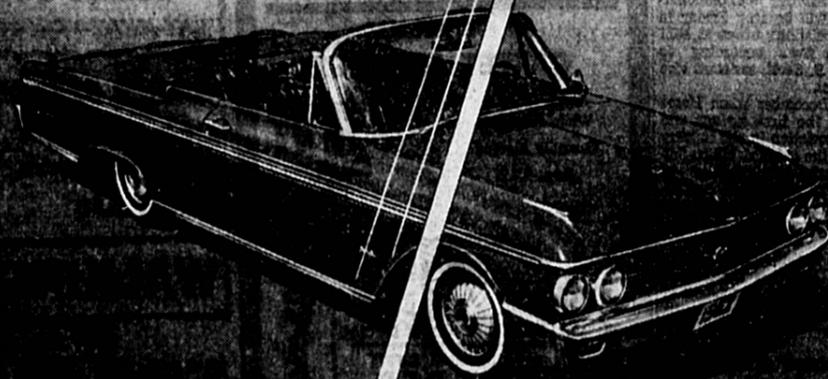

Showers and gym locker facilities are being housed in the industrial arts building for the present.

DESIGNED BY Roy Donley, the West High campus combines straight lines and gentle curves to create a uniquely functional and pleasing campus. It will be expanded to serve about 3,000 students as the need arises.
