Salvation Army Offers Chance To Help Others Without Riches

One need not be rich to participate in the rehabilitation program of the Salvation Army's Men's Social Service Department.

This program had its beginning over 80 years ago in New York City. The tradition of the service to others less fortunate was quickly established and today there are in excess of 120 men's centers across the nation where discouraged men, victims of their bad habits, find wise counsel and material and spiritual assistance as they prepare to again become useful citizens.

ner this program of rehabilitation is carried on without drain on today's already overburdened taxpayer. The program is financed, almost entirely, by the collection of used or salvage materials picked up by Red Shield trucks at the request of persons who wish to donate articles to this cause. Restoring these articles to usable condition provides work therapy for the man seeking help and their sale through Red Shield Thrift Stores produces most of the capital required for the operation. Urgently needed at this time are used clothing, shoes, warm bedding, mattresses, furniture, rugs, appliances, stoves, radios and household articles of almost any description. Friends of the Salvation Army desiring to support this humanitarian program are invited to call their nearest Salvation Army and a Red Shield truck will promptly stop at home or office to pick up your used materials.

Nuclear Science Course Expanded

Nuclear Science 10, the unique laboratory program of the physical science division of El Camino College, will again be expanded under provisions of a fourth grant received from the administrators of the National Defense Education Act. In making the announcement, William T. Mooney, assistant director of instruction, emphasized that although the monies would buy equipment used directly in Nuclear Science 10, the related areas of chemistry and physics would also participate in the program.

WARREN E. FORD, course instructor, describes the purpose of the lab as "an introductory course in basic nuclear theories and the industrial, medical and technical applications of nuclear science."

"The program is designed to train personnel in the handling and use of radioisotopes and the instruments associated with their use," Ford said. Equipment purchased under this latest grant will be incorporated into the laboratory for the February, 1963 semester, and classes have been arranged for Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 6 to 7:30 and 7:30 to 10:30 depending upon the section.

Prerequisites for the class are high school science and math.

"I BELIEVE, however, that persons presently employed in the fields of petroleum, aviation, missiles, electronics, medicine, plastics and chemistry would find the course especially valuable," Ford added.

Present figures of the Atomic Energy Commission estimate that individual applications of nuclear science in these fields have contributed more than half billion dollars per year to the economy of the United States.

"Increased utilization of radioisotopes has brought with it not only a shortage of trained technicians but the need for retaining personnel in areas of radioisotope application," Ford concluded.

DURING THE past summer, Ford attended the NSF Summer Conference in "Properties of Materials" at UCLA and the NSF-AEC Summer Institute in "Radiation in the Physical Sciences" at Iowa State University, Ames, Iowa.

Ford has previously attended NSF-AEC institutes for college teachers in the nuclear field at Oregon State University and Louisiana State University. He has had 10 years of diversified industrial and research experience in the heavy chemical, petroleum, steel and motion picture industries.

WOMEN PAST 21 WITH BLADDER IRRITATION

After 21, common Kidney or Bladder Irritations affect twice as many women as men and may make you tense and nervous from too frequent, burning or itching urination both day and night. Occasionally, you may lose sleep and suffer from headaches, backache and feel old, tired, depressed. In such irritation, CYS-TEX usually brings fast, relaxing comfort by curbing irritating germs in strong, sensitive and by analgesic pain relief. Get CYS-TEX at drugists. Feel better fast.
