score more are the taproots of our legacy and they are anchored deep in the history of our country.

"We who have chosen to be their sentinels well know that what we guard is nearly 200 years of courage and loyalty, of unbeatable spirit and devotion to Country and Corps.

"TODAY, AS IN the past, our strength is in our readiness and willingness to carry out any mission assigned—upholding the high standards of those who have gone before. Let us then face the future, guided by the steadfast devotion and singleness of purpose that have made the name, United States Marine, a proud and honored one.

"To all Marines throughout the world, and to all Marine families, on the 187th birthday of our beloved Corps, I extend my heartiest congratulations and best wishes." Signed, David M. Shoup.

Gunnery Sgt. Sam Zavodny, noncommissioned officer in charge of the Marine Corps recruiting office in Torrance, chose the occasion of the birthday of the Marine Corps to express thanks to the citizens of the beach and Torrance areas for the fine cooperation with the Marine Corps.

A TOUR OF DUTY with the Marines offers many advantages to the young man of today, said Sam. Although we learn much from the past, many of the lessons being used by Marines around the globe are in various stages of development. The Marine Corps of the future is being built today; the Marine leaders of tomorrow are being trained today.

Sam will be in his office at 2165 Torrance Blvd. to talk to young men and women who can meet the Marine Corps high standards for enlistment. He can be reached at FA 8-2330 daily from 9 until 4:30.

rance High were also honored.

THE OTHER side of the coin showed that suspensions for the first school month more than doubled from those of last year during the same period. Suspensions rose from 46 last year to 100 this term.

The administration reported that one large factor in the increase was the opening of West High.

There has been an exceedingly large number of suspensions at the new school in order to acquaint students with the rules, and to let them know that the rules will be enforced.
