

'Holiday Bazaar' Slated Nov. 29

For Christmas shopping pleasure, area residents are invited to attend the "Holiday Bazaar" to be staged by the Torrance Woman's Club on Thursday, Nov. 29, at their clubhouse, 1422 Engracia Ave. Handmade decorated items suitable for holiday giving have kept club members busy during the past few weeks and will be on sale at festive booths, according to Mrs. L. G. Pulliam, general chairman of the event.

Doors will open at 10 a.m. and the bazaar will continue until 4 p.m. From 11:30 until 1:30, club members will serve a luncheon for shoppers.

Mrs. H. W. Bowman is serving as chairman of the home-baked food booth. Mrs. F. M. Shaw is in charge of the white elephant booth; Mrs. Don Moore, needlework; Mrs. Roy Apsey, Christmas decorations; Mrs. L. B. Pulliam, doll clothes booth; and Mrs. W. C. Moyer, fancy aprons.

Chairmen for the luncheon are Mrs. C. L. Porter and Mrs. R. E. Moffitt.

Handling ticket sales for the luncheon is Mrs. John C. Warnock.

The public is invited to attend both luncheon and bazaar. Proceeds from the event will go to the Club's philanthropy fund.

YOUR PROBLEMS

by Ann Landers

'Your Office Needs Another Dictionary'

Dear Ann Landers: I have a gripe which will probably seem like a trifle to you but it's a source of continuous teeth-gnashing around our office.

This office is a large one. About 150 people work at desks which are fairly close together. The Webster's unabridged dictionary is on the other side of the room. The character who sits beside the dictionary is a smart-aleck know-it-all.

Regardless of who goes over to the dictionary, this creep pops out of his chair and says, "What are you looking up?" If the person doesn't answer he stands there and looks over his shoulder.

I, for one, don't feel that it's any of his business what I'm looking up. When he plants himself behind me and breathes on my neck I could cheerfully strangle him. Any suggestions on how to deal with this insufferable jerk?—READY TO COMMIT MAYHEM

Dear Ready: Your office needs another dictionary—on the opposite side of the room. Get a petition going.

Dear Ann Landers: We've been married 20 years and have two children 10 and 8 years of age. I've worked like a horse for the last 15 years and I'm tired.

We own a small cafe which I run myself. My husband has a little business on the other side of town which requires his attention about three hours a day, three days a week. I do all my own cooking, housework, washing and ironing and the yard work. I put in a good 15-hour day.

When I mention quitting work my husband's blood-pressure zooms and he yells, "Fine idea—why don't we BOTH quit and starve to death?" He likes this cafe business because it gives him a chance to sit around and chin with the customers. He fancies himself a poor man's Toots Shor.

Is it a crime to want to stay home and take care of my children? How do I get out of this rut?

—DISGUSTED

Dear Disgusted: From your description of the ball o'fire you're married to, you just might starve if you quit running the cafe. So here's a suggestion which is practical and fair:

Split the cafe work with the genial host. Make it clear you are taking off two full days a week. On the days

Patricia McNees To Wed M. E. English Next Month

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn McNees, 22105 S. Denker Ave., are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Ann, to Michael John English, son of Mrs. Clare English of Point Piper, Sydney, Australia.

Miss McNees was graduated from Narbonne High School in 1957, where she was student body vice president. She received her degree from UCLA in 1961. At the university she was a member of Alpha Chi Omega and Phi Beta Kappa.

Miss McNees is now teaching freshman English at Stanford University and doing graduate work in the English department there. She is also a research and typing assistant to Dr. Wilfred Stone.

Mr. English is a native of Sydney, Australia. He was employed by a Sydney newspaper and the Sydney branch of the J. Walter Thompson Advertising Agency. Mr. English is currently working at the Stanford Writing Center on a Wallace Stegner Creative Writing Fellowship.

The couple will be married in December in the San Francisco area. They will come to Southern California for the holidays and will visit the future bride's parents.

In January, they will resume their work at Stanford.

Deardorff-Hill Names Are Linked in Marriage

White chrysanthemums and red carnations decorated the altar of the First Methodist Church in Redondo for the evening wedding on Nov. 10, when Miss Virginia Deardorff, 22524 Hickory Ave., pledged her marriage promises to Arnold Hill, of Hawthorne. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Deardorff of London, West Va. Mrs. Bill Abasion of Santa Ana and Mr. Delbert Hill of Arizona are the parents of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Claude Stonier escorted the bride to the altar and gave her in marriage. Her white peau de soie sheath gown was detailed with a scoop neckline outlined with satin. A bouffant overskirt fell into a chapel train. A single peau de soie rose with a pearl droplet secured the fingertip veil and the bride carried a white orchid atop a white Bible.

Miss Deanna Calvert of Toledo, Ohio, was the maid of honor. She was gowned in a white sheath with overskirt and carried China chrysanthemums centered by garnet roses.

Bridesmaids were Misses Sharon Brooks, Karen Gass and Sandy Smith. They wore red velvet sheaths and carried China chrysanthemums and red roses.

Delbert Hill served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Jim Gregerson, Rodger Gregerson and Don Boyd.

The Rev. Murry Gibbons officiated at the double ring marriage ceremony.

A reception was held at the church. Miss Karoline Michells was in charge of the bride's book.

Mr. and Mrs. Hill are now at home in Hawthorne following a San Francisco honeymoon.

The bride, a graduate of the Montgomery, West Va. High School, is employed as a secretary at the Cabot Medical Group, Torrance.

Her husband was graduated from Santa Ana High School, and is employed by Space Technology Laboratories, Redondo Beach.

FANTASY IN FASHION . . . Junior Woman's club has added a holiday fashion show to its annual Handicraft Fair to be held Nov. 28 at the clubhouse, 1422 Engracia Ave. Selecting elegant new fashions, suitable for the holiday season ahead, are from left, Dorothy Taylor, owner of a charm school, who will serve as commentator; Mrs. Clayton Lilley and Mrs. William Faulds, club members, who will serve as models. Tickets are on sale and may be secured by calling Mrs. Richard Reynolds.

McFarlanes Hosts Today

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McFarlane and daughters, Laura Lee and Kerry Sue, are entertaining at a Thanksgiving dinner today at their home, 4701 Cadison St.

Guests are Mrs. Tracy Cox, Miss Carmen Wamhoff of Los Angeles, Capt. and Mrs. William Massingale of Gardena, and the McFarlane children's godparents, Mr. and Mrs. A.F.R. Ewalt of Harbor City.

Abels Return From Alaska

Mr. and Mrs. George Abel, former Torrance residents who have spent the past two years in Alaska, returned to Torrance recently for a two weeks visit with Mrs. A. E. Palmer, 1510 W. 214th St., before going on to Fort Worth, Tex., for a visit with Mrs. Abel's sisters.

Mr. Abel is an engineer employed by the United States government. They plan to return to Torrance before going on his next assignment.

At Clubhouse Nov. 28

Juniors Will Present Yule Fashions, Fair

That "special" Christmas gift or Yuletide decoration may be found when the Torrance Junior Woman's Club stages its annual "Handicraft Fair" and Fashion Show at the clubhouse, 1422 Engracia Ave., at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 28.

"Christmas Fantasy" is the theme for the evening with an array of items and decorations offered for sale before and after the fashion show. Among the items displayed will be handmade red felt Santa card holders, candles, feather trees, and many others.

Fashions for the holiday season will be modeled by club members, Mmes. William Faulds, Clayton Lilley, Deloy Stromme, Frank Ashford and John Gray.

A Del Amo Center dress shop will furnish the fashions and an accessory shop, also in the Del Amo Center, will provide the right jewelry and other accessories to complement each outfit.

The new hair fashions on the models will be the work of a Rolling Hills beauty salon. Commentator for the show will be Dorothy Taylor, owner of a charm and modeling studio, located in Redondo Beach.

Mrs. Robert Vroman, chairman, is being assisted by Mrs. William Weyant, decorations chairman, and Mrs. Robert Long, refreshments chairman. All of the committees have combined their talents to make this an outstanding evening on the club calendar.

The public is invited to attend the event. Tickets may be secured by calling Mrs. Richard Reynolds.

HOLIDAY FASHION SHOW . . . Women of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church will stage a "Holiday World of Fashion" show on Nov. 29 at 8 p.m. in the parish hall. Members and their children will model fashions furnished by local shops. There will be door prizes and refreshments. Preparing for the show are from left, Mmes. James F. Wilkes, Miss Leslie Barrington, Mrs. Stephen Hamner and Becky Mallard. Tickets may be secured by calling Mrs. Adam Krauszer or Mrs. Richard Turner.
