

FEASTERS . . . Judy Wolford and Stuart Goodgold will portray Calpurnia and Caesar and rule over the festivities at the North High Latin Club's fifth annual Saturnalia Saturday night.

Roman Saturnalia Set For North Latin Club

North High School's Latin Club members will present their fifth annual Saturnalia Saturday.

Program of Christmas Music Set

Members of the Marymount College student chorus will join with vocalists from the college's extension division to present a program of Christmas music on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 2, on the Palos Verdes Estates campus.

Directed by Dr. Roger Wagner, head of the Marymount music department, the major work on the program will be the Missa Ad Honorem St. Leopold, by Michael Haydn.

Also to be presented will be Child Jesus by Clokey and Kirk, Hear the Sledges with the Bells by Hugh Robertson, Virgin's Slumber Song by Reger, Non Nobis Domine by Quilter, Jesus Joy of Man's Desiring by Bach and Sing We Noel, traditional.

The concert will begin at 3 p.m. in the Student-Faculty Center, and there will be a small admission charge.

Judy Wolford, daughter of Mrs. Helen Wolford and Stuart Goodgold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Goodgold, were selected to portray Calpurnia and Caesar and rule over the festivities. Other Latin Club members and their guests will also be dressed as Romans.

Saturnalia was an ancient Roman festival honoring the god Saturn.

As part of the entertainment Kris Whitley will sing, Judy Wolford will do a modern dance, and Yvonne Collette will play the accordion.

"This year we are looking forward to one of the best Saturnalia that a Latin Club has presented. Special entertainment will highlight the event. It will be quite a memorial evening," Bruce Cole, Latin Club vice president, stated.

The Latin Club is sponsored by Lewis Bereskin.

EQUIPMENT STOLEN
Electrical equipment valued at $1,670 was reported stolen over the weekend from an apartment building construction project at 3650 Emerald St. The equipment belonged to the Calk Construction Co., of 21188 Hawthorne Ave.

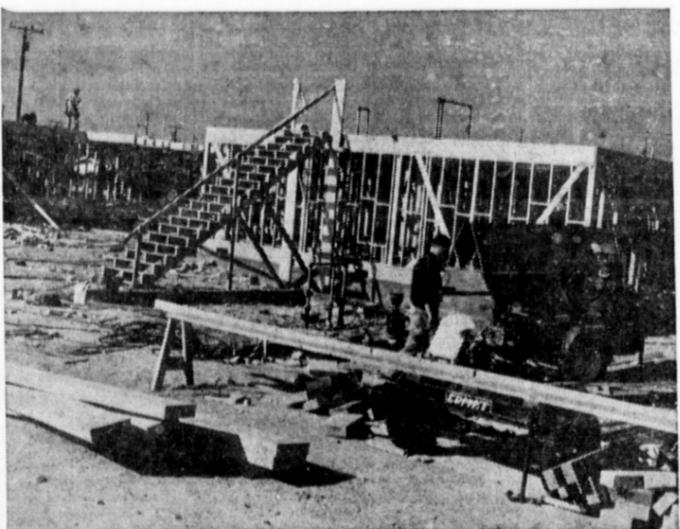

British Author To Speak at Marymount Here

British author Sir Arnold Lunn will tell about his fellow craftsmen when he appears on the Marymount College lecture series on Thursday, Dec. 6, in the Student-Faculty Center.

He will relate anecdotes concerning G. B. Shaw, H. G. Wells, Ronald Knox, Chesterton, Belloc and Graham Greene, all of whom he has met in the course of pursuing his own literary career.

A graduate of Harrow and Balliol College, Oxford, he is the author of more than 39 books, among them "Is Christianity True?" "Difficulties," "Science and the Supernatural" and his autobiography, "Come What May."

The lecture is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. and there is no admission charge.

GOING UP . . . Construction is progressing on the Del Amo Pacific Own Your Own Apartment Homes at Madrona Avenue and Carson Street. Estimated occupancy date is about the 1st of May or June. Eighty units will feature eight swimming pools and recreational facilities. (Herald Photo)
