

BRIDAL FASHIONS . . . The loveliness of Spring is reflected in this youthful, airy bridal gown of Chantilly-like lace and nylon organza. The lavish fullness of the skirt is caught softly above a lace insert by three charming bows. The back, gracefully tiered in lace-edged organza from the tiny waist to the flowing chapel train. By Mori Lee. The head-dress . . . an illusion veil flowing from a pearl dotted Chantilly lace caplet, topped with a graceful bow. From the Spring bridal collection at The Broadway Del Amo.

Lucky is the girl whose wedding dreams come true this spring! She will discover a world of bridal fashions for herself and her bridesmaids that captures all the youthful, delicate traditions of the season in which she has chosen to marry.

Favoring traditional stylings, bridal collections display new artistry this spring with exquisite crafting of light, airy fabrics and detailings that are very fragile, very feminine.

The Broadway Del Amo will present outstanding fashions from the season's bridal collections on Tuesday, Jan. 29, at 7:30 p.m. in the Regency Room.

The bride, be her plans lavish or limited, will see many suggestions for her wedding gown and ensembles for her entourage, all appropriately accessorized. The presentation will include two complete wedding parties, replete with beautiful bride, bridesmaids, and mother of the bride.

Among reminders for her wedding day the prospective bride will see "The Romantic Look," a cosmetic group coordinated by Elizabeth Arden to meet the special demands of every spring bride.
